Kaukauna — A spectacular blaze that drew more than 1,000 spectators caused damage estimated at more than $50,000 to Central Block at the northeast intersection of Main avenue and Second street here last night.

Cause of the fire, which started about 9 o'clock in a closet off a hall on the second floor, is unknown.

Firemen of the Kaukauna and Appleton fire departments, playing seven streams of water on the conflagration, brought the blaze under control before midnight.

Fireman Overcome

Overcome by smoke, Captain Carl Engstrom of the Kaukauna Fire department, was found lying across a window sill in one of the back rooms on the second floor by another fireman, Walter Martzahl, about 12 o'clock. Martzahl carried Engstrom from the burning building and he was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital after first aid was administered. His physician said he wasn't actually injured but had strained himself from overwork and suffered from smoke. His condition was reported as good this morning.

Damage to the building was estimated at about $25,000 and to equipment at about $25,000.

40 SPANIELS DIE IN FIRE
Waukegan, Ill. — Forty pedigree cocker spaniels valued at $1,150 burned to death last night when fire of unknown origin destroyed the E. D. Mather 2-story cocker spaniel kennel at Waukegan. Building and equipment loss was estimated at $1,600.

About 60 spaniels and a few puppies which were kept in outside kennels were saved.

When employees of the county highway department noticed the blaze at midnight and notified the Waukegan Fire department, the fire was beyond control. The building was heated by furnace and stove, according to Mr. Mather. Five of Mr. Mather's best pedigree studs burned.

ment, stock and furnishings of the tenants at about the same figure.

Only the files and a desk were saved from the clinic occupied by Dr. Alphonse E. Bachuber and Dr. Alois M. Bachuber, who estimated their damage at $8,000, most of which is covered by insurance. Damage to offices occupied by Dr. R. J. DeLoria, dentist, was estimated at $2,500 and it also is mostly covered by insurance.

Drug Store Damaged
Water and smoke caused about $10,000 damage to stock and fixtures of Look's Drug store. Only a small amount of merchandise was saved from the store. Most of the equipment of the Kavanaugh Barber shop was saved. His loss was estimated at $150. Damage to the Joseph Wolf tavern was estimated at about $300.

Fire razed the meeting hall on the second floor of the building and damage was set at about $1,500. Joseph LeFevre, attorney with offices on the second floor, lost all law books and office records accumulated for 17 years. Some records in a fireproof safe were not damaged. The loss was estimated by LeFevre at about $3,600.

Apartment Destroyed
All of Mrs. Anna Beyer's household furnishings were destroyed. She occupied a 2-room apartment on the second floor and damage was set at approximately $300. A small amount of damage also was caused to the W. C. Ditter and Son plumbing shop, located next to Central Block, by smoke and water.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Beyer who turned in the alarm. She with her daughter, Marie, and Mrs. Carl Schuler, who were in the apartment were able to pass the fire in the hall to safety. Mrs. Beyer's

Seven Persons Perish in Fire In New Jersey

Widow, 5 Children and Brother-in-Law are Victims

20 DEAD IN ILLINOIS

Only 6 Bodies are Identified in Salem Bus Tragedy

Jersey City, N. J. — Mrs. Rose Burkhardt, 54-year-old widow, her five youngest children and a brother-in-law, burned to death early today in a three-story frame dwelling.

The other dead: John Gorman, about 69; Philip, 12; Charles, 13; Florence, 17; Theresa, 10, and Veronica, 9.

Rose, 20, another daughter, was the only occupant of the building to escape. Awakened by smoke, she ran down the stairs and was carried to the street by a passer-by.

All available firemen and apparatus in the city were called to battle the fire. Police and firemen awakened members of three families sleeping in an adjacent three-story building and aided them in reaching the street. Firemen kept the flames from spreading to this building and to a garage on the other side.

Firemen said the Burkhardt family and Gorman were sleeping in their quarters on the second and top floors of the building. On the ground floor Gorman operated a junk shop, and firemen said they had to fight their way with axes through the piles of mattresses, furniture and other articles stored there to reach the stairway to the upper floors.

2 Children Suffocate
Dr. Alan Rose, Medical Center intern, said two of the children suffocated before fire reached them. The bodies were lowered in baskets by block and tackle from the roof to an ambulance.

Robert, 24, and John, 22, two other sons of Mrs. Burkhardt, did not spend the night at home. Robert, a Medical Center employee, was on duty at the time.

An older daughter, Mrs. Mary Lanese, 26, who lived elsewhere, collapsed when she reached the scene. Anthony Debrita, 21, a friend of the family, rescued Rose Burkhardt. He dashed into an alley, climbed a fire escape to the second floor and found the girl at the window.

Debrita quoted Rose as saying that Charles cried he was going to jump.

Air and Artillery Attack on Madrid

Rebel Planes Bomb Spanish Capital for Five Hours

Madrid — Insurgent bombers rained explosives on Madrid for five hours today, halting their sky attacks only when artillery batteries took up the battle and began to pour shells into the beleaguered capital.

In bright moonlight the aerial raiders — usually single planes — circled the city, loosing heavy bombs on the central districts.

As one plane finished its deadly task, another appeared to take up the assault.

Government militiamen scoured the sky for searchlights. Streams of anti-aircraft shells and rifle bullets at the night raiders.

John Drinkwater, Famous British Dramatist, Dies

Succumbs to Heart Disease After Attending Boat Race

London — John Drinkwater, famed British novelist and dramatist, died today at the age of 54. The distinguished poet, whose dramatizations of characters of British and American history were among his best known works, died of heart disease while asleep at his London home.

Apparently in normal health, he had attended the Oxford-Cambridge boat race yesterday and later went to the University club for an evening with friends.

His widow, Daisy Kennedy, the Australian violinist, was injured March 11 when the automobile in which she and Drinkwater were driving, to a party after her concert was involved in a collision.

Drinkwater had just completed his own motion picture for the coronation of King George VI of which he was both author and producer. The film dealt with "The King and His People" from the time of Queen Victoria to the present.

A number of friends who saw a private showing of the film Tuesday described it as typically Drinkwater.

In one scene of the picture fellow dramatist George Bernard Shaw appears wisecracking to his friend Drinkwater in Shavian fashion.

"I read all of your works, why don't you read mine?"

Plays Famous in U. S.
"He was very happy all day yesterday," Mrs. Drinkwater said. "His last words written in an article on the coronation were 'happy and glorious.'"

Drinkwater's historical plays were widely known in the United States, particularly "Abraham Lincoln" and "Robert E. Lee."

Big-boned and picturesque in appearance, Drinkwater was an insurance broker turned actor and son of a schoolmaster who turned actor.

The young Drinkwater spent his youth touring the British provinces with his father's company. Born in Leytonstone, Essex, his early education was gained at Oxford high school where he was a classmate and boyhood friend of the youth who later became famous as Lawrence of Arabia.

London, Paris In Joint Stand On Spanish War

Agree They Must Prevent Landing of Added Foreign Forces

EYE PRESENT PLAN

France Bound to Keep Italians From Helping Rebels in Spain

London — Great Britain and France agreed today they must prevent further landing of foreign volunteers — especially Italians — in warring Spain.

Representatives of the two powers discussed the possibility of using warships to halt troop transports en route to Spain but postponed any decision, pending the outcome of the international non-intervention committee's control plan.

The Franco-British accord, as discussed, would go farther than the neutrality scheme, under which the movements of troop transports merely had to be reported to neutral headquarters by patrolling warships of Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

Diplomats said Paris and London, however, are in accord that the machinery of the neutrality committee shall be tried out thoroughly in regard to the problems relating to Spain.

The big "if" in the entire situation was the future course of those governments which have been accused of sending military assistance to both sides of the Spanish civil war.

The Franco-British agreement was negotiated by Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos of France and Sir George Russell Clerk, British ambassador to France.

Italian officials in Rome kept silence on the entire matter, pointing out they were resting on their own proposal to ban volunteers, made long ago. Some sources deplored any new unilateral action designed to achieve the same end.

Paris — France rallied her European allies after her today in a move to erect a naval blockade against the possibility of Italy's waging undeclared war against the republican government in Spain.

Great Britain, a foreign office spokesman declared, has pledged aid to France in blocking Italian landings if more troops were dispatched to the war-torn peninsula.

Fearing that Premier Mussolini might scrap the London non-intervention agreement to isolate the civil conflict, France assumed herself of the support of her own central European allies, should she feel action necessary by a series of extraordinary diplomatic conferences.

Creates Crisis
Diplomatic circles considered France's stern attitude against any line-up had raised the gravest crisis in troubled Europe since Germany gave assurances of her peace.

Check Heating System Before Classes Start

New London, Texas — Officials voiced assurance today the heating system will be ascertained to be safe before grade school children return to classes Monday at the London consolidated school where a blast killed 453 last Thursday.

School trustees called in United States Bureau of Mines engineers to check the untouched grammar school. The explosion at the high school was blamed on accumulated gas, probably escaping from a break in the heating system. Need for further heating at the grade school this term appeared unlikely but trustees said the system would be disconnected if the slightest cause for concern was discovered.

Yesterday the board voted to rebuild the school as quickly as possible. The few surviving high school students will study in the gymnasium and auditorium of the grade school.

Strikers March From 8 Chrysler Plants But Establish Picket Lines

Burke Would Fix Size of Supreme Court Permanently at 9 Members

Washington — Senator Burke (D-Neb.), opponent of the Roosevelt court bill, announced today he would introduce a constitutional amendment for compulsory retirement for judges at 75 years of age. It would be submitted to state conventions called by congress to meet within six months.

Burke said his amendment also would fix the size of the supreme court permanently at nine members.

He announced his plan after Dean Young B. Smith of the Columbia University law school had testified before the senate judiciary committee in favor of an amendment for compulsory retirement of judges and suggested that congress had authority to call the state conventions.

During his testimony Smith asserted the Roosevelt court bill would threaten the independence of the supreme court and might permanently impair the confidence of the people in that court.

Smith was the first law school dean to appear before the senate judiciary committee in opposition to the measure.

Fundamental Changes
In his testimony, he conceded that the court in recent years had "read into the constitution limitations upon law school graduates not required by its language."

He contended, however, that under President Roosevelt's interpretation "fundamental changes" could be made in the power of the federal government without a constitutional amendment.

The Columbia dean proposed as a substitute for the bill a constitutional amendment providing for compulsory retirement of judges at 70 or 75 years of age.

Such an amendment, he said, "can be drafted with ease, can be stated in simple language, and can be acted upon promptly."

Before Smith testified, Fred Breckman, Washington representative of the National Guard, told the committee the Roosevelt bill

3 Milwaukeeans Injured in Crash

Woman in Critical Condition; Oshkosh Truck Driver Also Hurt

Oshkosh — Three Milwaukeeans were in Mercy hospital today with injuries suffered late yesterday in an automobile and truck collision attributed to the severe snowstorm.

Mrs. Frieda Steuwerwald, 56, the most seriously injured, was in critical condition. She suffered a brain concussion, rib fractures, loss of blood and other injuries.

Her son, Fred, 33, who was driving the automobile, and his wife, Rose, 29, received only minor injuries.

Roosevelt Hopes For Rule of Reason In Labor Troubles

Warm Springs, Ga. — President Roosevelt was described by White House officials today as hopeful that the rule of reason would be followed in existing labor troubles.

They said the chief executive conveyed this thought late last night by telephone to Governor Frank Murphy in congratulating the Michigan executive on the agreement to evacuate sit-downers from eight Detroit Chrysler plants to facilitate further conferences between labor and management.

Marvin H. McIntyre, presidential secretary, said the president talked with Murphy just before midnight, central time, after receiving word of the evacuation arrangement from Secretary of Labor Perkins in Washington.

Meanwhile, it was emphasized again authoritatively that the weekend conferences the president would hold in Washington with a few congressional leaders would deal upon all pending questions, including labor.

Special Counsel Recommended for Mitten's Hearing

Attorney General Nominates Head of Milwaukee Bar Association

Madison — Attorney General O. S. Loomis today recommended the appointment of Gerald Hayes, president of the Milwaukee Bar association, as special counsel to prosecute charges that Sheriff Edward Mitten of Milwaukee county violated the corrupt practices act.

Loomis submitted his recommendation to Governor La Follette, who was expected to approve it.

The attorney general recently investigated a complaint that Mitten made false campaign statements against Carl R. Hampel, whom he defeated in the last election. He reported to the governor there was probable cause to believe that an action against the sheriff could be maintained and the chief executive instructed Loomis to take the necessary steps to start proceedings.

If Hayes accepts the assignment the prosecution will be entirely in his hands and Sheriff Mitten will face possible removal from office.

The statements which Hampel claimed false were published in a Milwaukee Polish newspaper as excerpts from a letter he wrote to a woman during the World war period.

Accept Terms
The union officials began their personal visits to the captive plants at 12:15 a. m. By 7:15 a. m., strikers in the DeSoto, Dodge, Highland Park, Chrysler, Plymouth and Dodge truck plants had accepted the terms.

Martin, Richard Frankenstein, organization director of the U. A. W. and other union officials continuing their tour of the plants inquiring their terms of the plants in which Chrysler officials agree not to attempt a resumption of operations until the strike issues are settled, was requiring more time than they had expected.

They spent an hour in the DeSoto plant, 4:30 to 5:15 in Dodge and 5:30 to 6:15 in Chrysler.

Three hours were required to obtain a favorable vote in the vast Dodge plant. Emergent Martin said there were 3,000 strikers in the plant and that only 200 had cast dissenting votes. Previous estimates of the number of strikers in the Dodge factory had not exceeded 4,000.

From other sources came the information that 95 per cent of the Dodge strikers had voted to continue the strike.

Prepare to Continue Vigil Until Controversy Is Ended

PARLEYS CONTINUE

Chrysler and Lewis Resume Discussions This Afternoon

Detroit — More than 6,000 striking automobile workers marched in swirling snow today from eight Chrysler corporation plants they have held since March 8, but prepared to establish picket lines until their strike for exclusive bargaining rights is settled.

The "sit-downers" in the Chrysler Kercheval avenue plant, the last to vote on the peaceful evacuation agreement, gave their approval at 11:40 a. m. C.S.T. and in a few minutes began to leave the factory.

Word of the Kercheval vote was telephoned to the big Dodge plant and 5,000 strikers marched at once from the plant.

About 1,400 strikers in the Kercheval plant cheered the announcement of plants to end the sit-down phase of the strike, but asked for a speech from Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers' union, before they gave final assent.

Resume Negotiations
Governor Frank Murphy at Lansing received word at 1:45 p. m. that the evacuation had started, and said the negotiations between Walter P. Chrysler, corporation chairman, and John L. Lewis, head of the committee for industrial organization, on the union's demands, would resume this afternoon.

A Martin and Frankenstein, organizing director of the U. A. W., hurried by bus to the Dodge plant to take part in a parade there. A crowd of several hundred gathered at the Dodge plant cheered the arrival of the union officials.

Frankenstein announced company police would take charge of all factory gates and the union would establish peaceful picket lines. He indicated that he expected some state troopers would be stationed at entrances also as observers.

As the evacuation went forward, union officials notified Lewis at Lansing of the developments.

Union officials said the plants were in "better shape than when the strike started." They said the men had paid extra attention during the strike to keeping the plants clean and the machinery protected.

Under an agreement announced last night by Governor Frank Murphy, Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the Chrysler board, Lewis and high officials of the U. A. W. will resume their conferences when the plants are cleared.

Cooing In the Zoo

"Commodore," prince of sea lions in the Denver, Colo. zoo, recently lost his mate, zoo: moody, irritable, sick. Then the zoo got a new sea lioness, middle-aged but graceful, beautiful, appealing, and in a jiffy old "Commodore" was himself again, a prince of polly sea lions. So the keepers dubbed the newcomer "Wally." To date no sea lion has ever been listed in Post-Crescent classified want-ads. We prefer home appeal to zoo-appeal. Hence the success of this one:

Representative Raps Secretary of Labor

Washington — A charge that Secretary Perkins had made "inciting remarks" in commenting on sit-down strikers rang out today in the house.

Representative McCormack (D-Mass.), citing statements in the morning papers which he said were attributed to her, declared that "the secretary of labor should be more careful in her inciting remarks."

His words, coupled with a demand that she "should be careful in her public utterances," fell upon lawmakers gravely concerned about the use of sit-down strikes, which have been attacked in several congressional speeches as illegal.

Alleged Embezzler Is Freed on $5,000 Bond

Milwaukee — Walter P. Crawford, 40, former cashier of the Lyons State bank at Lyons, Wis., charged in federal court with embezzlement of approximately $5,000 in bank funds, was released yesterday from the county jail after providing $5,000 bond.

Crawford, who waived preliminary hearing March 12 when arraigned before United States Commissioner Floyd Jenkins, had been held in jail when he was unable to provide bond.

Diary Tells How Two Brothers Died Of Hunger and Cold in Wilderness

Have St. Pierre, Que. — (Canadian Press) — A sudden diary told today the agonizing story of slow death from cold and starvation by two youthful brothers, lost in the wilderness of northern Quebec since last August.

Death, gripping them ever tighter for days, prevented Willie Collins, 23, and his brother, Edgar, 20, from completing the scrawled record of privation, hunger, illness and pain.

Their bodies, almost skeletons, were found by trappers in an old shack where, apparently, they camped to wait out a summer storm. Willie, the diary showed, cut his leg and was unable to walk. As their meager provisions dwindled, new storms buried the bushlands and they were trapped by the heavy snow.

Trade Practice Code

Madison — The Wisconsin Auto company, Inc. Oshkosh, filed suit in circuit court today to set aside the trade practice code for retail automobile dealers approved by Governor La Follette Feb. 25.

The suit, filed by Attorney Gordon E. Dawson of Madison, challenges the legality of code rules on the maximum hours of labor, minimum wage rates, and purchase and sale prices of new and used cars. Dawson charged they bear no direct or reasonable relation to unfair competition or unfair trade practices.

The code provision for arbitrary assessment of administration costs also was challenged.

Reach Settlement of $7.75 in $29,000 Suit

Wisconsin Rapids — A $29,000 civil action brought by Walter Belfuss and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Welsh of Neillsville for the deaths of their sons in an automobile accident was settled out of court yesterday for $7,750.

The mishap in which Wayne Belfuss and Richard Welsh, students, were killed occurred in December, 1935, near Marshfield. Emil Welsh was driving the other automobile involved in the crash.

Samoan Natives Get First Glimpse At Flying Boat

Pago Pago, American Samoa — (Via Pan-American Airways Radio) — South sea islanders gazed in wonder at the giant Pan-American clipper, which gracefully glided into land-locked Tutuila harbor yesterday after a tempestuous 1,349-mile crossing from Kingman Reef.

The four motored flying boat, first ever seen by the Samoan natives, landed at 5:14 p. m. Samoa time (10:14 p. m. Wednesday, C.S.T.), after 10 hours and 35 minutes of almost continuous "blind flying" through cloudy, squally and windy weather. The flight was the third leg of a pioneering trip from Oakland, Calif. to Auckland, N.Z.

Confronted with several rain squalls here, Captain Edwin S. Munsick said he and his crew of six would delay the final 1,797-mile stage of their flight for at least a day.

31 Traffic Deaths Recorded in State During Last Month

Two Automobile Accident Fatalities Reported for County in February

Although 56 Wisconsin counties came through the month of February without a fatal traffic accident, 31 persons met deaths on highways in the state last month, contrasted with 17 fatalities in February of last year.

After making a perfect record in January, Outagamie county had two fatalities on the highways in February. Seven lives were lost in a single accident this month.

Records in the safety department of the Wisconsin highway commission at Madison show that Outagamie county had a total of 13 serious accidents in February causing injury to 11 persons. In February of last year, his county had no deaths on the highways and 12 persons were injured.

That February accidents were not due to road conditions is borne out by safety department statistics. In February of 1935, most of Wisconsin highways were blocked with snow, with hard-battling highway crews able to keep little more than a 1-lane trail out through the drifts. Yet the month's slaughter on the roads dropped to the low mark of 17, the best month recorded in recent years in Wisconsin.

Fatalities Mount
During the first 16 days of February this year, highways of the north were jammed with snow and drifting roads of the entire southern half of Wisconsin were covered with treacherous ice or water, and only six persons met death in traffic accidents in the entire state. When road conditions improved in the latter half of the month, traffic deaths mounted rapidly.

State totals for February list 742 serious accidents, 388 property damage accidents, 471 injuries and 31 fatalities, bringing the total for the first two months up to 82 fatalities. Of the drivers reporting to the state safety department, 663 said they were "going straight ahead" at the time of the accident, 85 were making turns, 76 were stopping or had stopped, and 23 were parked.

There were 109 automobile-and-pedestrian accidents in February of this year, with 13 pedestrians being killed. In 13 other accidents, automobiles and trains were involved, while nine automobiles tangled with street cars last month. No deaths, which two or more cars came together led the list with 536 accidents for February.

Youth and age continued to be the best drivers, with only 30 drivers under 20 years of age being involved in accidents last month, and only eight who were over 65 years of age. There were 278 drivers between the ages of 20 and 29, and 336 between 30 and 49 years, with 96 between 50 and 64, state safety reports show.

'Cherry Blossom Week' Is Being Sought in State

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—Door county's famous cherries and cherry blossoms will be celebrated officially by Senator John E. Cashman, that county's representative in the state senate, has his wish.

Cashman prepared for introduction in the upper house Wednesday a resolution to request Governor Philip F. LaFollette to proclaim "Cherry Blossom Week" in order to give official recognition of the peninsula's internationally famous industry. The resolution, drafted by Cashman himself and written in his own familiar style follows:

"Whereas, Wisconsin is making rapid progress in the production of high grade northern-grown fruits, producing thereby one of the nation's and cherry alone; and

"Whereas, Door county peninsula, with its many and varied natural scenic attractions, stretches out over a rugged limestone ridge dividing the waters of Green Bay and Lake Michigan, is studied with numerous valuable cherry forests, comprising in all some 600,000 trees and producing annually 18,000,000 pounds of the nation's finest cherries;

"Whereas, the enviable reputation of Door county cherries probably carries the state's name further beyond its boundaries than any other grown product; and

"Whereas, In cherry blossom time these fruitful orchards, bedecked in raiment of spotless white, extending as far as the eye can reach, each year thrill thousands of visitors with one of the most profoundly beautiful and inspiring spectacles known to man; and

Automobile and Truck Collide During Storm

An automobile driven by Ray Retzlaff, route 2, Black Creek, was badly damaged in a collision with the rear of an A. E. Schulz Fuel company coal truck driven by Ole Moseng, Neenah, on Highway 10 near the asylum entrance about 4:45 Wednesday afternoon, according to county police.

The blizzard was at its height when the mishap occurred. An automobile ahead of the coal truck stalled and when Moseng halted the truck behind it, Retzlaff struck the rear of the coal company machine, a patrolman reported. No one was injured.

Having Good Job Does Not Insure Real Happiness

Health, Friends, Spiritual Ideals Important, Students Are Told

"We worry too much about what we are going to do, rather than about what we are going to be," stated Thomas N. Barrows, president of Lawrence college, at a college convocation Wednesday morning. "Happiness depends less upon our jobs than upon our health, our friends, the breadth and quality of our interests, our emotional balance and spiritual ideals."

"Having a good job does not insure happiness; knowing the techniques of a trade does not insure employment these days. Most vocational guidance today is defensive, based upon fear of unemployment, or merely upon the belief that it is necessary to 'find a job.' We have too much unemployment, evidencing our lack of adequate leadership. Stability is necessary—the kind of stability growing out of the qualities which the liberal college seeks to develop."

"We are interested too often merely in material security, rather than total security. Job-getting is provided by a liberal education because it is conditioned closer to producing a fully matured personality, and the real capacity to learn which is an essential of any kind of success."

Liberal Education
"Total security however hypothesizes significant living as well as material success, and the liberal education provides for a significant life. One can attain it without even going to college, but it is easier to attain it through the college because it is a conditioned environment, a kind of incubator of the principles which bring life to maturity more rapidly."

"Thus far I have talked about a liberal education but I have not explained it. Those of you who are beginning to understand and appreciate its nature know that it, like a symphony, must be heard more than once, to be understood. Only through repeated contact with it can we come to have an affection for it and to incorporate it in our way of living."

70 New Bridges Built Under Badger Program

Madison—(P)—Motorists may travel with greater safety and convenience in Wisconsin as a result of the construction of 70 new bridges and repair of 69 old structures through the works progress administration's farm-to-market road program.

M. W. Torkeison, state WPA administrator, said the new structures on state highways replace old, narrow bridges, many of which were condemned damaged by floods or worn out by years of use and weathering.

The WPA, he said, is constructing 11 additional new bridges and eight others are undergoing repairs.

Claims Farmers Get Only 50 Per Cent Of Cost of Production for Their Milk

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—Farmers now are receiving approximately 50 per cent of the cost of production of their milk. Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich, (P.), Manawa, announced yesterday following a study of material submitted to him by experts at the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin.

Handrich, and Arthur Hitt, (P.), Alma, recently introduced and obtained passage of an assembly resolution directing the College of Agriculture to provide the legislature with research studies showing farmers' cost of production and the spread between that price and the price paid by consumers for farm products.

Based upon standard requirements and costs of producing milk, research figures for the cost of a hundred pounds of milk this month show $2.99, which, according to Handrich's calculations, is roughly double the amount received by the farmer for the 100 pounds.

The college experts' deductions were based on the following costs per 100 pounds of milk: Grain, mixed ration, 40 cents; hay, mixed, 41 cents; silage, 32 cents; pasture, 13 cents; building costs, 8 cents; equipment costs, five cents; bull charge, seven cents; depreciation, (cow), six cents; miscellaneous costs, 15 cents; man labor 50 cents; management, 75 cents; interest on cow, seven cents. Cost of labor is considered to be $52 a month, for 260 hours, while management wage was figured at 30 cents an hour, or $78 a month.

"It is the same with the fundamental idea behind the liberal education. From time to time I shall discuss the different aspects of it, and all that goes to make up the program of Lawrence college."

Proposes New Federal Works Program Bill

Would Provide Relief and Public Works Program for U. S.

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—A new works program bill, in which a permanent relief problem is recognized, providing for federal relief and a permanent public works program as relief workers believe such should be handled, has been submitted to congress by Representative Gerald J. Boyleau of Wausau, Wis.

Behind the measure is the Workers' Alliance of America, which consists of WPA workers who long have agitated for increased wages. Boyleau, with other liberal members of congress, has often appeared in their behalf and has befriended them on several "marches" on the capital.

The policy of the bill is to provide and continue to provide funds to create employment for the unemployed, and if such employment cannot be provided to furnish direct cash relief, "sufficient to procure to every human being the minimum necessary to maintain health and decency."

Designed to fill social welfare and labor standards requirements, the bill would not only furnish employment under federal funds, but would fill vital social needs such as construction of low-cost public housing, flood control, and rehabilitation, building of schools, playgrounds, hospitals, etc.

It carries an appropriation of three billion dollars for the fiscal year July 1, 1937 to June 30, 1938, to provide three million jobs on WPA.

3 'Organizers' Quit Milwaukee

Labor Activities 'Nothing Less Than Racket,' Police Report

Milwaukee—(P)—Three self-appointed labor organizers left the city yesterday. Captain Adolph Kraemer said, following an investigation which indicated their activities here "were nothing less than a racket, and for personal gain."

Police said the men, all of Chicago, had attempted unsuccessfully to organize several groups of workers including taxicab drivers, grain elevator employees, waiters and waitresses.

Kraemer said one, whom police questioned, admitted he was operating on his own. The others left before they could be picked up, police said. Representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the committee for industrial organization disowned the men, Kraemer said, and they had no credentials.

"The police department has been vigilant in checking on labor leaders, particularly those from out of town in view of the strikes sweeping the middle west and Chicago," Kraemer stated. "We expected racketeers and illegal labor organizers might seek a field here. Milwaukee is free from labor trouble at the present time. Any legitimate representative of labor organizations or any organization, with legitimate motive, can operate here unmolested. But we will not tolerate racketeers and chiselers stirring up trouble here."

St. Louis—(P)—William Sacks, 63, attorney and former banker, died early today after an illness of three weeks. He was prominent in national and state Republican political circles.

In 1922 Sacks was boomed to succeed Will H. Hays as postmaster general. During the same year he was defeated for the nomination for United States senator.

Quiz Engineer on His Valuation of Utility's Property

Telephone Company's Attorneys Try to Break Down His Estimates

Madison—(P)—Attorneys for the Wisconsin Telephone company resumed cross-examination today in an effort to break down the valuation fixed by Engineer Cyrus C. Hill on which the public service commission based an order directing the company to reduce rates.

Hill, former chief telephone engineer for the commission, valued the utility's property at $33,000,000. Company officials said this sum is much too low.

While Hill was being cross-examined yesterday by Frederic Sammond, Milwaukee, attorney for the utility, L. H. Hayner, who had done much of the detail work concerning which Hill was testifying, was in the court room.

Another company attorney, J. Gilbert Hardgrove, Milwaukee, complained to Judge A. C. Hoppmann that Hayner was rodding to the witness. Hayner said he only testified his head at parts of the testimony because he was familiar with the subject and was not attempting to guide the witness.

However, Judge Hoppmann ordered him to leave the court room while Hill was on the stand.

When the cross-examination is completed, the company will call officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, who have come here from New York, to testify on valuation figures.

Prepare For Egg Hunt

An Easter program entertained the Lions club following its weekly dinner Tuesday evening at the Ward hotel. The Rev. E. C. F. Stubenvoll, pastor of Christus Lutheran church and a member of the club, gave an Easter talk on "The Resurrection and its Meaning to the Christian World." Vocal solos were sung by Miss Mildred Brackeb and Miss Elizabeth Stubenvoll, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. R. H. Schmidt.

During the business session which preceded the program, final plans were discussed relative to the annual Easter egg hunt to be sponsored by the Clintonville Lions club. If the weather permits, the event will take place at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, March 28, in Central park. Hidden in secluded places will be hundreds of candy eggs and 48 prize eggs, for which the finders will be rewarded with 25 cents in cash by the Lions. The park will be divided into three sections, one for children 2 to 4 years old; another for youngsters 5 to 7 years old; and the third section will be for boys and girls of 8 to 10. Plan to Extend Foreign Airmail Service to China

Flights on New Route Will Start April 21 From San Francisco

Service on foreign airmail routes from San Francisco to Manila will be extended to Hong Kong and return from Hong Kong direct to Manila with westbound flight due to leave San Francisco April 21, and eastbound flight due to leave Hong Kong April 29.

The new route will provide mail service from San Francisco by Honolulu, Hawaii and Guam to Manila and then via Macao, Portuguese colony in Asia, to Hong Kong. Connections will be made there with the Chinese airmail system for the coastal cities, Shanghai, Nanjing, Peiping and China interior.

Philatelic treatment will be given all articles carried by the first flight each way on the extended part of the route to and from Macao and Hong Kong. Articles addressed to Honolulu, Guam and Manila or originating there will not receive philatelic treatment. No provision is made for carrying any cover both ways.

For the first flight only, senders may address covers to themselves or any person in the United States; if covers are prepaid with United States stamps in containers and sent to postmasters at San Francisco, Honolulu and Guam for mailing such covers by first flight to Macao and Hong Kong.

Covers also may be sent to the postmaster at Manila and the Philippine Islands in a container with a money order to purchase Philippine stamps for mailing and dispatch to Macao and Hong Kong. All such covers should be clearly marked for first flight.

Ask Boost in Funds for Stationery for Solons

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Because congressional mail is so much heavier than it was 69 years ago when members passed a law authorizing an appropriation of $125 per year for stationery supplies, Representative John McCormack of Dorchester, Mass., has introduced a resolution to increase it to $250.

The present appropriation per congressman is entirely inadequate, McCormack pointed out. The average member spends his $125 allotted by congress in no time at all. And when that is gone, he has to dig down into his own pocket for such items as typewriter ribbons, pens, paper, ink, etc.

Under the economy act, the allocation was cut to $90, but since has been restored.

According to McCormack, the original law, passed in 1868, is out of date because there is so much more outgoing mail than there was in the old days.

Gresham Scout Troop Applies for Charter

Application for a Boy Scout troop charter was received this morning by Valley Council officials from St. Therese Catholic church troop at Gresham. The Rev. A. M. Grill, former assistant pastor at St. Mary's, Appleton, is adviser for the organization.

The St. Therese troop will be the forty-fifth in the council but additional ones are planned at Tilleda, Wittenberg, Brillion and Potter. Victor Henke is scoutmaster of the Gresham group with Robert Mouty, assistant. Frank Maeder has been named chairman of the troop committee with other members being Herman Knoke, Carl Wilson, Frank Schulte, Joseph Troeger, Fred Studoch and the Rev. A. M. Grill.

Billings-Mooney Probe Is Asked

Ten Badger Solons Sign Petition Seeking Investigation

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—The seven Wisconsin Progressives in the house, Senator Robert M. La Follette, and Representatives Ray Cannon and Thomas O'Malley, Democrats, with nearly a hundred other members have signed a petition asking the president to cause an immediate investigation of the famous Mooney and Billings case in California.

Sponsors of the movement hope to obtain the signatures of approximately 300 members of the seventy-fifth congress.

In calling on President Roosevelt to arrange for an investigation, sponsors ask that he follow the precedent set by President Wilson. The two men, jailed for the Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco in 1916, have been in prison a total of 42 years. As yet, sponsors of the move to reopen the case point out, they have not been able to present the merits of their case to the United States Supreme Court. This, they claim, is a violation of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution.

"If two men can remain in prison 42 years awaiting a fair and impartial trial, and never get it, who is there amongst us," they ask, "who can be safe from a similar outrage?"

Bird House Contest Will Close April 1

Entries in the city-wide bird house contest sponsored by the Appleton chapter of the Isaac Walton league with the cooperation of Junger Walcott and boy scouts, may be brought to the Schleifer Hardware store anytime before April 1. R. L. Swanson, Walton league president, said today.

The houses will remain the property of the builders and the winner of the grand prize in all divisions will receive the Sykes silver trophy.

Houses may be entered in any one of four groups, when houses, main houses, blue bird and miscellaneous, and feeding stations and shelters.

County Is Given Award for Record In Safety Program

Police Chief Prim. Receives Certificate From Governor

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Amid the congratulations of Governor Philip F. LaFollette, Thomas Davlin, chairman of the state highway commission, other state officials and several hundred state, county and municipal police officers, Chief George T. Prim, Appleton, receiving the Outagamie County Safety Council, Wednesday received a certificate of excellence in recognition of Outagamie county's work in the highway safety movement during 1936.

Presentation of awards climaxed a two day safety meeting sponsored jointly by the state highway commission and Wisconsin county safety councils. Outagamie county during 1936 placed second in its population class in safety work, being preceded only by Brown county. Other counties in the same class to receive certificates were Manitowish, Waushara, Marathon and Sheboygan. Brown county, placing first in Group B, was awarded a bronze plaque, received by George J. Cormier, Brown county highway commissioner.

Officers Congratulated

"I am sure that I express the sentiment of the whole state and all the people of Wisconsin in congratulating you," said Governor LaFollette in presenting Chief Prim the framed certificate. "The problem of safety is a vital one," the governor continued. "There is a great deal still to be done. Safety on the streets and highways is a new problem; it requires study, research and experimentation."

Chief Prim received the award in place of Frank R. Appleton, county highway commissioner, who did not arrive on time due to bad road conditions.

Only other Outagamie county delegate present at the time of the presentation was Carl Radtke, Appleton police traffic sergeant. Others were expected during the day, however.

Represent Calumet

Calumet county was represented by Ray Jensen, Chilton, county highway commissioner and head of the county safety council. Winnebago county's delegates were F. W. Nolle, Oshkosh, assistant manager of the Wisconsin Public Service corporation; A. B. Bleyer, director of the Oshkosh vocational school, and P. J. Fink of the Oshkosh vocational school. Waupaca county delegates were C. W. Larson of the county highway committee, and E. A. Polzin, Marion, of the county police. Waupaca county also received a certificate at the ceremonies, in Class C, while Calumet county was grouped for honors in Class D.

Action Deferred On Controversial Michigan Measure

Would List Occupational Diseases Under Workmen's Act

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—The senate had deferred action today on the controversial occupational disease issue until next week.

Efforts were made on the floor Wednesday to substitute a bill drafted by a special commission named by former Governor Fitzgerald for the lengthy Hittle measure around which dispute has raged for days. The commission bill carried a schedule of 27 diseases which would be compensable under the workmen's Compensation act.

Before the clerk had completed reading the commission bill the senate decided to postpone until next Tuesday action on the substitute. A group of general conservation bills were introduced by Senator Samuel H. Pangborn, Republican. They would change the squirrel season in the lower peninsula to Oct. 15 to 30, and in the upper peninsula to Oct. 1 to 12.

Other Proposals

The state conservation commission would be given authority to fix the limits of the season on duck and geese to correspond with federal regulations. Road size zoos would be prohibited. Loading docks would be banned in mechanically propelled boats as well as automobiles. Only conservation officers would be exempt from civil action for shooting dogs and pursuing deer, and penalties ranging up to one year imprisonment would be prescribed for shooting elk or moose.

A bill to appropriate $10,694,730 to the state hospitals for the ensuing biennium came up for debate today in the house. It would allow them $5,297,108 for the first year and $5,397,622 for the second.

A bill revising the schedule of license fees for commercial feed manufacturers was approved unanimously and transmitted to the state.

The graduated system of fees lightens the burden on small manufacturers.

Anti-Vivisectionists are Divided Over Measure at Senate Hearing

Madison—A split in the ranks of anti-vivisectionists appeared at a hearing before the senate's education and public welfare committee yesterday on a bill to regulate and restrict animal experimentation.

Miss Marie Graves, Milwaukee, president of the Animal Protective league, led the proponents of the bill, and Mrs. Arlene Holst, Milwaukee, whose position as president of the Wisconsin Anti-Vivisection society was affirmed in court after a legal battle, proclaimed her opposition to the measure.

Miss Graves said 6,000,000 animals annually are "torn, cut, mangled and crushed to satisfy the lust of a science-crazed nation." She attacked vivisection as ruthless and needless sacrifice of animal life and compared it to "fendishness of the dark ages." Only 5 per cent of the animals used in experiments are anesthetized, she said.

Mrs. Holst said regulation is impossible, and assailed the bill as "sky-wahey" and a stumbling block to total abolition of vivisection.

The regulatory measure would limit animal experimentation to state-inspected laboratories and experimental farms, provide keeping of records of all animals and the experiments performed on them, require use of anesthetics, and forbid any experiment to ascertain animals' reaction to intense and severe pain.

Dr. William S. Middleton of the University of Wisconsin Medical school, said the bill could be interpreted to prohibit all experimentation. He told of the development of treatment for many diseases as the result of such experiments and said the medical profession would "stagnate or go backward" if vivisection were abolished.

BATTLE $50,000 NIGHT BLAZE AT KAUKAUNA

Appleton and Kaukauna firemen are shown in the above picture as they fought the $50,000 fire that razed Central block, located in the business section on the south side of Kaukauna last night. The fire broke out about 9 o'clock and was brought under control before midnight. The entire second floor of the building was destroyed. Damage to the building was estimated at $25,000 and to stock and fixtures of tenants at approximately the same amount. More than 1,000 spectators were drawn to the scene. (Post-Crescent Photo) duty it is to tell you that the good-blessed Virgin came from heaven last night to take away my dear brother, Willie, about 11 o'clock.

"Dear God, I don't know what to do with myself. I can't sleep now. I have eaten only once in three days. I can hardly cut wood because I'm just able to lift the ax. Oh God, maybe in a few days the blessed Virgin will come for me, too. Do not fear for us, dear parents. We have gone through too much not to be saved.

"I wish you good night now. I no longer can see the date on the page. Whatever date is missing from this notebook will be the day good Saint Anne came for me. I'm saying my rosary. I cry and sigh, and am trembling with cold, Edgar."

That was the last he wrote.

On the floor beside his emaciated body they found the book. Its first entry was dated Dec. 24 and Christmas, the next day, told of "heavy snowstorm, very cold."

Less than a week later Willie "ended this unlucky year by cutting my foot."

Food then became scarce so, despite still raging storms, they decided on a desperate effort to get home. But two days later.

"We weren't able to leave. . . It is hard to move about. . . Still snowing. . . We are getting weaker every day. . . Oh God, how miserable life is to us. . . We can't tell on paper all our miseries and trouble. . . For two days now we have eaten only flour and water cakes. . . How long and lonely the days are. . . We are very weak. . ."

Another week: "We couldn't even drag ourselves out to get wood today. . . Jesus, Mary, Joseph pray for us."

Jan. 25: "I don't think Willie will live through the night. . . Jan. 26: . . Willie is dead. . . Oh God, maybe in a few days the blessed Virgin will come for me, too."

Plan Fund Drive for Summer Band Concerts

Plans are being completed for the Elks campaign to raise $2,000 for summer concerts by the 120th Field Artillery band of the Wisconsin National guard, according to Orville J. Thompson, band manager. The drive will open on April 5 with Gordon Derber in charge. The drive will be managed in military style with a captain in charge of each company or team, and 10 companies will form each regiment.

constituted an attempt "to intimidate and coerce the supreme court."

When Breckman concluded Senator Dietrich (D-Ill.) asked if he was "one of the constitutional experts" the opposition had promised to present.

Senator Burke replied that Breckman did not qualify as a constitutional expert but that he "speaks the thoughts of 800,000 farmer members of the National Grange."

Burke said the opposition was "laboring under some difficulty" in presenting witnesses because it did not have the aid of the attorney general's office or the Democratic national committee.

He announced, however, that the opposition would present tomorrow the first of its constitutional experts in the person of Dr. Irwin N. Griswold, professor of constitutional law at Harvard; Walter F. Dodd, Chicago lawyer; and Miss Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist.

Dean Smith, who said he had voted for President Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936, agreed readily that the supreme court had placed restrictions on the power of the government not required by the constitution.

"Should Be Corrected"

"This can and should be corrected," he said. "But with the same frankness, I must say that in interpreting the general welfare clause, the president likewise read into the constitution powers conferred upon the congress which the language of the constitution does not justify."

It Is Said--

THAT during the storm yesterday noon, Mrs. Wesley Lathrop, 1224 W. Fourth street, looked out of the window of her home to find that the family car had disappeared from the driveway. Later she found that the wind had blown the car out of the driveway and across the street to the lawn of a neighbor. On its route the automobile had jumped an 18-inch curb.

That the blizzard yesterday temporarily ended the union picketing of two business places on E College avenue. The picket men found it too hard to march with the "unfavorable" signs in the strong wind and gave up the job to await the arrival of fair weather.

That the wintry breezes yesterday cosed: Herb Wichmann a new hat. While he was getting from his car on College avenue, his hat blew off and was pinned on the rear bumper of a passing automobile which continued on its way.

7 Candidates in 3rd Ward Aldermanic Race

Two more "sticker" candidates for alderman in the Third ward at the spring election appeared today. They are Andrew Schiltz and Otto W. Schultz. Other "sticker" candidates are Gustave Keller, Miss Adelaide Schuller, Pearl Hackbert, Charles Caplain, Hubert J. Flette and Walter Fountain. City Clerk Carl Becker today advised that persons running for office as "sticker" candidates file election expense reports. Election candidates must file two reports, the first due next Tuesday and the other on Saturday, April 10.

Fair Weather Returns After March Blizzard

Storm Blamed for Death of John M. O'Hanlon, 74

Fair weather returned to Appleton this morning after a wintry blizzard Wednesday which was blamed for the death of John M. O'Hanlon, 74, 817 W. Fifth street. Mr. O'Hanlon died last night after apparently overtaxing himself while shoveling snow. The blizzard for a short time threatened to block roads but the snow stopped falling before the situation became serious although for a time visibility was reduced to almost zero.

Generally fair weather with low temperatures will continue tonight and Friday, according to the forecast of the United States Weather bureau. The temperature during last night dropped to 12 degrees above zero but had climbed back to 20 degrees at noon today.

Snowfall Light

Less than two inches of snow fell yesterday but a strong northeasterly wind caused it to drift over highways and streets. Street department equipment was put into service at midnight and the work was being continued today. Several Outagamie county snow removal units today were widening roads. No highways became blocked as ditches were clear and much of the snow was blown clear of the roads.

Maximum temperatures of 26 and 12 degrees were reported in the last 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

CREWS CLEAR ROADS

Milwaukee—(P)—Highway crews cleared roads today of drifts piled up in a 24-hour snowstorm that indirectly caused four deaths and created the season's worst traffic conditions in the lower portion of Wisconsin.

The storm clouds, shipped by winds ranging from 30 to 40 miles an hour, dumped more than 5 inches of snow along a long stretch of Lake Michigan's west shore.

Manitowish reported an 8-inch fall, described as more than had fallen there all winter. There was heavy drifting in spots and a few main roads in Manitowish county were temporarily blocked. Fourteen plows succeeded in opening the highways shortly before noon.

Two motorists suffered injuries in accidents resulting from poor visibility yesterday.

In Milwaukee, the storm ceased about 9 a. m., leaving the ground covered with seven and a half inches of snow. Traffic was slowed considerably. Drifts several feet high blocked some streets.

Barber Dies

William Barton, 67, a Merrimac barber and John Buell, 65, of Racine, succumbed yesterday to heart disease while they were shoveling snow at their homes. Mrs. Ella Schostag, 61, of Milwaukee, also collapsed while shoveling snow.

Over-exertion while shoveling an automobile in a parking lot was blamed for the death of Herbert Fomeroy, 47, a Milwaukee car salesman.

Snow was reported as far north as Green Bay, Eau Claire and Wausau last night, although the brunt of the storm was felt in the extreme southern part of the state, especially in the Platteville area where telephone poles were snapped and trees blown over.

In many sections of the state snowplow crews worked late into the night to keep highways free of drifting snow. Traffic lagged, but buses and railroads for the most part continued almost on schedule.

Fishing fleets at Racine and Kenosha were unable to leave the harbors yesterday because of the high waves on Lake Michigan. Car ferry service was interrupted at Manitowish during the height of the blow.

Last night 72 snowplows worked in Milwaukee to clear the streets of the more than four inch snowfall—the heaviest of the year.

said that there is a sufficient number of men in the department and there is no chance of adding more. He pointed out that if the chief needed more men he had the right to appoint volunteers.

Plans for rebuilding Central Block will not be discussed until the next meeting of the Farmers and Merchants Trust company is held. Henry Olson, a trustee of the company, said today. Other trustees of the company are Carl Hansen and Fred Konrad. Oim said that most of the outside brick structure of the building is still intact.

The Look Drug store was to be opened today in the quarters formerly occupied by Pontius Variety store, two doors east of Central Block. The Buchner clinic and offices of Dr. Deloria also will open in the same building. The Kavanagh Barber shop was opened today in the Grandview hotel building on Main avenue.

Chief Esler said the fire was a difficult one to fight as flames spread in the attic that ran the entire length of the building. There was a tremendous draft that swept the flames along the upper structure in a short time, he said.

WAREHOUSE BURNS

Fire this morning destroyed the Embarras branch yard and office of the D. J. Rohrer Lumber company, Clintonville. Damage, estimated at more than $5,000 was covered by insurance.

The building contained paints, hardware and building materials.

Praise Appleton Unit

Praise for the work of the Appleton firemen was expressed by the chief who said they aided materially in bringing the fire under control and in finally subduing it.

France, Britain Stand Together On Spanish Strife

ful intentions in the face of a similar French warning to keep out of Spanish Morocco.

In the present situation, Germany promised an early reply to France's two-fold proposal to bolster the London agreement by:

1. Withdrawal of all foreign troops from Spain.
2. Prevention of further influx by force.

At the same time that France was looking parties early to her own allies, she sought to reach separate agreements with the other members of the non-intervention committee in support of her two-point plan.

Mussolini's Choice

The French foreign office maintained hope Mussolini would agree gracefully but considered reports of the defeat of Italians among the insurgent volunteers on the Madrid front had placed it duce in a position where he had only two alternatives: recall his forces or reinforce them.

"The obstinacy with which Italy maintains its intervention in Spain," a foreign office source said, "while the soviet and even Germany have almost entirely withdrawn from the scrape seems to indicate a design to acquire lasting advantages and install herself there with a probable goal of creating eventual dangers for France behind the Pyrenees and weaken her lines of communication to North Africa."

(On Tuesday Great Britain was told by Italy after urgent representations that the only Italian landings in Spain since the international ban on volunteers went into effect was a medical detachment March 5.

Great Britain at that time indicated she was satisfied with the Italian explanation of reports that thousands of Italian troops had been sent to aid the insurgents.)

French Claim Proof

Diplomatic authorities disclosed, however, France claims to have "absolute proof" that Italian volunteers have landed and the government views the situation with "gravity."

The refusal of Count Dino Grandi, Italian representative on the London committee, even to discuss the question of withdrawing volunteers now in Spain also was felt by officials to have added to the stiffening of the French attitude.

After conferences between Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos and the British ambassador, Sir George Russell Clerk, and the German ambassador, Count Johannes von Welck, authoritative sources disclosed France had proposed:

1. An immediate study of plans to enforce an Anglo-French blockade by tightening the naval control against any new interference.
2. A campaign to gain cooperation of the other powers in the London committee.
3. German pressure on her Italian ally to keep peace.
4. Consideration of a League of Nations session for a general discussion of the whole situation.

The latter course was said to have been discarded almost at once lest it wreck the London committee and eventually result in another failure for the league as in the case of efforts to keep Italy out of Ethiopia.

shortly before 8 o'clock and spread so rapidly that the Clintonville fire department was summoned to assist the Embarras volunteer department in fighting the flames.

The cause of the fire is unknown. William Rindt, manager of the branch, reported that he started a fire in the office stove, went out to wait on a customer, and returned to find a fire had started in the office and was spreading rapidly. Rindt's tools, kept in the opposite end of the warehouse, were the only things saved from the frame office and warehouse.

The building contained paints, hardware and building materials.

Chief Esler said the fire was a difficult one to fight as flames spread in the attic that ran the entire length of the building. There was a tremendous draft that swept the flames along the upper structure in a short time, he said.

RUNNING THE UNIVERSITY
Proposed plans to provide the personnel on our University Board of Regents by farming out to various groups the privilege of naming some of the members arouse in us no enthusiasm.

It is quite likely that such proposals will bring us orderly and satisfactory rules of university affairs. So, for the most part, has the prevailing system.

Were the alumni to select five regents from among themselves they would, no doubt, select capable men. Were the people at large to select another five members, they, too, would generally vote for those of proven intelligence. But the idea that such a plan is foolproof and bound to bring us virtues in abundance is not demonstrated to our satisfaction when we must admit that it is departing from a principle of democracy. And such principles are worthy of adherence.

The governor appoints the members of the Public Service Commission, Industrial Commission, Tax Commission, and other bodies in which we have reposed far-reaching powers, bodies in fact whose decisions and administration of affairs are of critical importance to the people.

In each instance the appointment must run the gamut of the senate. This is a wise provision. True, it isn't perfect, but it tends to make the executive cautious and particular in his appointments as it likewise is likely to catch up any clear blunder upon his part in the selection.

The university is the property of the state. It has the title to the land, buildings and equipment. It has the duty of administering its affairs. This is a heavy responsibility. It has far-reaching consequences. Yet it is no more important than the work assigned to the commissions mentioned.

Democracy has its faults. Perhaps some are evident in university administration. But the cure for a fault of democracy is a little more attention by the people to their affairs.

Certainly the cure is not to stab democracy, depart from its soundest principles, and invoke a method of control or administration at least fractionally antagonistic to the form of government under which we live and the principles by which we must abide.

SOME TESTIMONIAL!
Said Senator Wheeler of Montana:
"It is better to have no supreme court at all than a subservient one. I have been of the minority myself, as I know that it was only the evidence of an independent judiciary that protected the rights of the minority I belonged to."

Senator Wheeler has a perfect right to speak with deep feeling. He was the object selected by the Fall-Daugherty conspiracy for the shame and humiliation of an indictment obtained through a prosecutor it could trust and voted by a grand jury that heard but one side.

The Fall-Daugherty conspiracy could not reach to the federal judiciary. It could not control the judge. It could not even get its slimy hands upon the processes of justice.

The effort to obtain a victim and further smear and smash liberal proposals failed when brought before a clear-eyed judge who never hesitated to express the opinion formed in the light of the evidence.

Perhaps Senator Wheeler remembers, too, that when the chief conspirator against him, Fall, was on trial for receiving a hundred thousand dollar bribe, and the spectators choked with emotion at the fearful pleas entered in his behalf, particularly the prayer to send the tottering old man "back to the sunshine of New Mexico" it was a forthright and unflinching federal judge who sat up a little straighter in his chair and sharply remarked to the jury: "The sunshine of New Mexico has nothing to do with this case."

No oak was ever rent asunder by a stroke of lightning as the Fall defense by those electric words.

THE LEOPARD AND HIS SPOTS
The Russian press has been making considerable news by way of comparison of its treatment of crime. It has taken a young man who killed his mother and sentenced him to eight years imprisonment. This man stabbed his mother in the back. He wanted the slim funds she possessed. He claims he was a reader of American detective stories and thought well of gangsters.

America probably has not recovered yet from the mere life sentence doled out to Loeb and Leopold instead of an execution. In Russia, it would appear, these men might expect about eight years imprisonment because they committed a fearful crime in a lighthearted, almost gay manner. Yet subsequent events, with them, as well as many others who commit dreadful crimes and escape with light punishment, reveal that the heart of stone that must exist to make these crimes possible is never softened by public tears or sympathy.

It is quite all right for the Russians to gloat over their superior wisdom in the punishment of criminals. They will learn the truth in time and by a teacher that instructs well even if the rod used cuts deeply.

THOSE WHO PAY THE FREIGHT ON SUGAR
President Roosevelt proposed the placing of a tax of not less than 1/4 of a cent a pound on sugar with the expectation that a hundred million dollars a year revenue will be produced, a part of which will go to pay bounties to domestic sugar growers.

Opposition to such a measure is not unnatural if based upon the principle that bounties should come out of general taxation, but if that principle is not sound there is nothing particularly terrifying about this legislation.

Yet when the President made the announcement he declared that this excise tax would not increase the price of sugar to the consumer simply because the price is fixed by supply and demand and the supply is controlled by the quota system now in vogue. He added that the entire tax will undoubtedly come out of the profits of the sugar refining industry, but he did not declare where it might come from if that industry did not have sufficient profits to account for the hundred million. Does he expect that the sugar refiners will then operate at a loss and dig down into their pockets to provide the money?

This is a curious system of reasoning and certainly one the President could copyright. The so-called law of supply and demand assuredly has a major effect upon the price at which articles are sold but the thought that the cost of an article, affected as it is by taxation, would not in turn affect the cost at which the article is sold to the public, surely has no basis in either logic or experience.

A short time ago wages were increased in the steel industry. The next day the price of steel products was advanced. It wasn't a question so much of supply and demand at the time as it was a reason for raising the price.

The American people will find that they will pay the processing tax on sugar. Let the President remain in no quandary about that. More interested should Mr. Roosevelt be with that declaration of Augustine:

"Our concern with any man is not with what eloquence he teaches but with what evidence."

STRIKES AND THE PRESIDENT
There is a disposition in a democracy to credit the ruler with the sunshine and to blame him for every speck of inclement weather.

We should all be consistent enough to remember that the preservation of order belongs primarily to the states. We are passing through a time when there is much discussion of where authority and responsibility shall be put, and most of us are trying to defend the lodgement of authority in the states excepting only when it appears impractical, and therefore unwise, not to hand certain authority over to the national government.

Washington would have a right to interfere if interstate commerce is prevented by any disorder. It would have a right to interfere were the sacred mails held up, delayed or diverted. It would have a right to interfere if a state found itself unable to cope with disorder, and this because the federal constitution guarantees to each state "a republican form of government."

Otherwise the President should not be concerned with shutdown strikes or anything else excepting those things which properly belong upon his desk, and there are quite enough of the latter.

Some of this injudicious criticism of the White House for not interfering with the shutdown strikes and preventing them comes from those who at other moments blame the President for exercising too much authority, or capturing authority that does not lawfully belong to him.

Opinions Of Others
ALL SIGNS GOOD BUT ONE
With the self-interest of the General Motors strike, the automobile industry soon will be operating under production schedules among the largest in its history. The end of the season's strike on the Pacific coast gave another boost to the industry.

The Ohio Valley coal miners are rapidly repairing the damage caused by the flood and resuming their important activities. Flood losses in the lower Mississippi valley did not prove as serious as it was feared they would.

During the strikes and the flood emergency, steel production was reduced surprisingly little and bids fair before long to exceed 60 per cent of capacity.

Remarkable strides toward recovery from the depression were made last year. The movement then begun had the momentum to withstand this winter's setbacks and, by all the best indicators, its acceleration would be expected from this time on.

The exception lies in the possibility of a course on the part of the president and congress leading uncertainly into new departures and affecting confidence in the government.

The question before the senate is this: Pack the court or pack your grips.

The sit-down strike originated in Europe, which thinks up some of the cutest things.

If we ever get into a dispute, we hope we shall be allowed to pick a friend of ours for judge.

The next thing probably will be shutdown strikes by the manufacturers.

But definitely NO. The manufacturers are merely the OWNERS of the plants—the guys who gambled everything and worked years to build up the plants—what right have THEY to do anything like that?

Of course, if they take a liking to the C.I.O. offices or to the homes of their C.I.O. employees, it's perfectly alright for them to move in and occupy the quarters as long as they choose. That's the American way—the rendezvous with destiny—with Auntie Perkins waiting at the door to greet them.

That reminds me: why hasn't some bright member of the majority group—the stand-uppers—conceived the idea of taking a delegation to Alexandria, Virginia, and conducting a sit-down strike in John Lewis' house? Think of the fun to be had occupying J.L.'s bed, living room, kitchen and garage, not to mention his bathtub.

A Verse for Today
By Anne Campbell

SEE ALWAYS FORGOT
She always forgot what she gave to others. But maybe that's only the way of mothers. For a small reward—for a child's gay laughter—She was happy and grateful and moved to tears. She did not remember, even long after. Her care and devotion through toiling years.

She never remembered the time expended. The labor involved or the sad hearts mended. Her service to others she swept from her mind. And went forward nobly, with patience and worth.

As if her resolve to be happy and kind Was what was expected of her on earth. (Copyright, 1937)

Looking Backward
10 YEARS AGO
Thursday, March 24, 1927
Announcement has been made of the appointment of Paul Smith as general manager of the Combined Lacks Paper company to succeed Frank Holbrook, who resigned a few weeks ago to return to the International Paper company. Installation of the electric clock system in the common room started several weeks ago, probably will be completed this week.

William H. Reynolds, president of the Menasha Dry Goods company, was the speaker at the Menasha Rotary club luncheon Wednesday noon at Hotel Menasha. The club has a 100 per cent attendance so far this year.

The marriage of Miss Mathilda Mathiasen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Mathiasen, Center street, Wauwata, to Henry Waser of Neenan, took place Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride. After a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark., they will make their home in Neenan, where the bridegroom is employed by the See Line railroad.

25 YEARS AGO
Thursday, March 28, 1912
Plans for raising $1,000 as Appleton's share of the cost of improving the highway between Appleton and Menasha were discussed at a meeting of good road enthusiasts in the city the previous evening. More than half of those attending the meeting were farmers. J. T. Donahay of the state highway commission spoke at the meeting. A soliciting committee, to secure funds, was named and members are C. S. Boyd, chairman, Dr. D. J. O'Connor, A. A. Wettengel, John Goodland, Jr. and Frank Wright.

Marriage licenses were issued that day to Charles Busse and Dora Schubring, Kaukauna; Clyde Carter and Marie Isberg, Appleton.

Prof. Charles Merica formerly of Lawrence college and former principal of Ryan high school, died at Joseph, Wyoming, where he is now located. He accepted a post as superintendent of State Training School for Boys at Red Wing, Minn.

There can be no doubt of the recovery movement becoming a settled era of prosperity if, bringing that about were clearly shown to be the guiding purpose of the president and congress.

Effects of action or trends at Washington on business activities are often over-estimated. They also may be under-estimated. The spring upsurge may occur in any event; we hope it will—but the part the government plays has become larger in recent years. There is much more occasion than in former times for congressional action on the government's measures. We think the cooperative course is the one the president was expected to pursue, and the one which would best serve the best interests of the greatest number.—Detroit News.

Personal Health Talks

THREE THOUSAND UNITS OF VITAMIN A
Nutrition authorities estimate that infants growing child or adult requires 100 units of vitamin A for each 100 calories of food consumed. That would mean the vitamin A ration for a six months old infant would be perhaps 750 units; for a six years old child 1,500 units; for an adult doing light work, 3,000 units daily.

A quart of milk contains over 2,000 units of vitamin A. An ounce of escarole contains 6,000 units of vitamin A. An ounce of tomato, raw or canned, or of tomato juice, raw or canned contains 170 units. An ounce of cream cheese contains 1,400 units, an ounce of American cheese 700 units. An ounce of butter contains 1,400 units. An ounce of liver contains 2,800 units. One ounce of carrot contains 940 units. One ounce of prunes 300 units. Evaporated milk, condensed milk, both contain more than twice as much vitamin A as fresh milk. Dried milk contains more than twice as much as evaporated or condensed milk. 300 units per ounce. Banana, sweet potato, string beans, cantaloupe, kidney, dates, lettuce, spinach raw or canned, green corned or dried peas, egg yolk, romaine lettuce, brussels sprouts, green leafy vegetables such as onion tops, celery tops, radish tops, beet greens, turnip greens, water cress, garden cress, parsley, mint, nasturtium, alfalfa, are all good sources of vitamin A.

Unless the diet is severely restricted it does not seem likely that any one in this country should suffer from vitamin A deficiency.

Night-blindness, the most delicate index of vitamin A deficiency, is rare in this country, according to a survey made by Drs. Hess, Lewis and Baranberg. They also studied the alleged value of vitamin A for preventing respiratory infections and concluded there is no clinical basis for regarding vitamin A as anti-infective.

Having sifted all the evidence I could get my hands on these past few years I am now of the opinion that vitamin A doesn't matter and need never worry any one unless his diet is severely restricted for any reason, and in that case his physician should do all the worrying about adequate vitamin rations to supplement the diet. I believe the vitamins most people are likely to need are B, G and D and, in the north and east where fresh fruit and fresh vegetables are less available or too expensive in winter, vitamin C.

That the great majority of people in this country get insufficient vitamin B and vitamin G is as certain to my mind as it is that the majority of people use white bread as a staple or fundamental part of their diet. My conviction about the universal deficiency of vitamin B is based on the fact that no natural foods of man supply enough of this vitamin to meet the requirements of the infant, growing child or young adult. True, sunlight on naked skin produces vitamin D in the body—but how many infants, growing children or adults get any sunlight on naked skin to speak of?

ABOUT COLLECTING RUBBISH
Editor Post-Crescent:—In reply to the article headed "Rubbish Collection," I feel that I must not let this go by unanswered. Am a home owner and also desirous of keeping our city beautiful.

Do not believe in encouraging youngsters to pick up rubbish but do not see any harm in a grown person picking up an article that perhaps was very much needed. It could be possible that the driver of truck No. 3 did not have the means to buy a paint brush. Some people can afford to discard what another might need.

Have seen worse things than a child (not urchin) pulling a cart along the street with a few articles which they have collected on it.

I am not of a selfish nature and it would not hurt my feelings to see someone carry away something that I discarded if they could make use of it.

USE FOR THE BRUSH
Editor Post-Crescent:—Monday evening March 22 I read the article in this forum, that some one missed the chance to get himself a paint brush, and this same person is criticizing the driver of Truck No. 3, who lives in the sixth ward, for robbing him of the opportunity.

This person also mentioned that the truck driver's home must be stored with many dilapidated relics.

In my estimation, this truck driver has a very nice home, and perhaps much nicer, than the home and not as many relics, as the person that wrote the article.

To further inform him, as to the whereabouts of this wonderful paint brush, it is being used to wash grease, paint and oil off the trucks that are being repaired, and many

A Bystander In Washington
BY PRESTON GROVER
Washington—While Secretary Morgenthau was required by the Johnson act to prohibit France from setting up a fiscal agent in the United States to help handle its new defense loan, there were private hopes in several quarters that the permit could be granted.

Even without such accommodation, there were shrewd inside guesses that much capital now in the United States would find its way to France.

So much capital from abroad has come here seeking safety that it has become a fiscal problem child of nearly $8,000,000,000 proportions. For that reason there were strictly concealed wishes that no impediments be put in the way of France luring some of its fugitive gold back.

Outlook
The Johnson act prohibits sale of securities in the United States by any nation defaulting in its debt to this government. France did not ask to sell bonds here. Instead she proposed to issue bonds payable in francs, dollars or pounds.

Secretary Morgenthau said no to that but he declined to say it would be a violation of the Johnson act for American money to drift overseas, and there be used to buy French bonds.

Senator Johnson of California, author of the act, and Borah of Idaho said any bank advising Americans to buy French bonds would be putting their fingers close to the fire.

Fair guess: That a movement will be launched, perhaps next session, to take some teeth out of the Johnson act.

Warning
If there is a depression within the next two years nobody can deny that President Roosevelt called the turn.

"Recovery is speeding up to a point where the dangers of 1929 are again becoming possible, not this week or month perhaps, but within a year or two," he said in his fireside chat. He didn't put himself out on a limb, however; he said such dangers might become "possible" in event of failure of his program.

Seen And Heard In New York
BY GEORGE TUCKER
New York—Again are presented certain items of trivia as quoted from personalities whose names make news.

UNDERSTATEMENT—"A night club, I found, is a place where more people can sit down in a given space than the space can possibly hold; where the irresistible force meets the immovable body every minute. If they are old and fat people, spend money so they can see, and then raise a smoke screen so they can't; where food is served as a distraction; and where everyone is applauded except the waiters, who invariably give the most incredible performance of the evening."—John Anderson.

REGRETTABLE—"One of the favorite games of Esdino children is to have each other up by their hoods until they lose consciousness. The others take them down as soon as their faces turn purple. They often play this game, for they think the state of unconsciousness delightful."—Peter Freuchen.

CRITICISM—"On Broadway, as in any respectable shoe repair shop, there is a heel for every lost soul."—Leo Reisman.

CONFESION—"Chicken today and feathers tomorrow—that's me. My luck never changes."—E. Phosian Howard.

OBSERVATION—"He who has seen one cathedral ten times has seen something; he who has seen ten cathedrals once has seen little; and he who has spent half an hour in each of a hundred cathedrals has seen nothing at all. Four hundred times less interesting than one picture; and no one knows a cave till he has gone there often enough to know the names of the waiters."—Sinclair Lewis.

ACTRESS—"Red hair on a woman is never an indication that she is quick tempered."—Erin O'Brien-Moore.

ACTOR—"Of course I gave her a diamond ring, but that doesn't mean anything. I give away lots of diamond rings."—John Barrymore.

SINGING—"Singing is a place where, if you are a success, the world is at your feet—otherwise, it is at your throat."—Eve Symington.

NOVELIST—"Strictly speaking, a work of art should be born in its own medium, and one should no more turn a novel into a play or a film than one should turn a picture into a statue or adapt a violin and piano sonata for a full orchestra."—James Hilton.

COMEDIENNE—"If I were asked to describe my entire career on the stage, I would do so in five words. Audiences have been my downfall. Every time I have tried to take them down, they have taken me."—Beatrice Lillie.

FRENCHMAN—"When you leave Washington Square and find yourself back in the New York of today, it is like leaving the earth for a season in Hell."—Paul Morand.

Proper Administration Of Humanitarian Laws To be Sought by Eagles

THE Fraternal Order of Eagles is determined to see properly administered the humanitarian laws for which it has pioneered," said Dr. H. B. Mehrmann, national president of the order who spoke at a meeting of Eagles from Appleton and surrounding towns last night at Eagle hall.

He spoke of the commendation which President Roosevelt gave the order for its sponsorship of social justice legislation in the states and nation when the president sent the organization a pen with which he signed the Social Security act.

Reviews Work

The speaker reviewed the Eagles' work for these various laws and spoke of the Eagles-Ludlow bill to stabilize employment.

Stating that the order has accomplished so much because it has had man-power, Dr. Mehrmann told of the quota plan launched last June by which the order hopes to build its membership to 1,000,000 by June 1 of this year. Each lodge has received its individual quota, the number it is expected to initiate, and the drive is now on, said the speaker.

On that night the members who have been Eagles for 25 years or more will be guests of honor, and the meeting will be preceded by a banquet and entertainment. Grand and state aerie officers will be present.

After the program last night, pupils of the Beverly Breinig School of the Dance presented a program as follows: Wing tap, Bob Lemke; tap dance on toes, Lucille Kuehn; tap dance, Ruth Vandervelden; comedy tap, Bill Tornow; Three Muehri and Bob Lemke; winging a la Powell, Mabel and Ruby Looser; acrobatic dance, Teresa Vermeeren; baby tapper, Marion Sabara.

Aquarium Collectors

Bring 'Em Back Alive

Miami, Fla.—(P)—Aquarium collectors, equipped with traps, glass bottomed buckets and water periscopes, have arrived from the north to "bring back alive" odd and strange fish for northerners to see. Most of their catches are made in shallow water where their traps, baited with fish and meat, are placed along the reefs at depths of from five to 20 feet. Fish caught in greater depths, they say, usually are of little value since the pressure change in bringing them to the surface is injurious to them. The waters around Miami, Key Largo, Key West and the Bahamas are favorite spots for specimen hunters.

FALSE ALARM
Toledo, O.—(P)—Firemen, summoned to extinguish "an automobile fire," were nonplussed when they drew abreast of J. Dunn in his eight-year-old model with a flaming oil stove on the seat beside him. He said it was cheaper than these new-fangled built-in heaters.

Train Brides-to-be For Professional Men

Tokyo—(P)—If a girl in Japan wants to marry a policeman, a doctor, an office-worker, or even a soldier, there are specialty schools now in Tokyo where she can go and prepare herself for that eventuality.

Believing that their daughters may win a better prize matrimonially, more and more parents—after having decided upon the profession of their future sons-in-law—are enrolling their daughters in these various preparatory courses. Classes intended to teach scientific household management are conducted in accounts and budgeting, dietetics, hygiene, sewing, flower arrangement, tea ceremony, music, cooking and serving Japanese, Chinese and Western style dishes.

'Baby Safety Zone' Is Set Up by Post Office

Goose Creek, Texas—(P)—So pleased is Postmistress Flo McElhany with the "baby safety zone" she installed in the local postoffice she'd like to see it made standard equipment for all postoffices. The zone provides a place for Goose Creek mothers to "park" their children while they attend to business in the postoffice. It is built like a baby's crib, furnished with little chairs, and enclosed by a fence. "The investment is nothing," says Miss McElhany, "and it saves mothers a lot of worry."

Song Fest Is Planned At College

SINGING has always been a favorite fraternity and sorority pastime, but the boys and girls at Lawrence college are going at it with real seriousness this spring. Harmony and volume and tempo are being scrutinized as never before, and almost every chapter meeting is becoming a song rehearsal. The reason for all this concentrated attention is the first Lawrence Interfraternity-Sorority Song fest, scheduled to take place May 14.

The program will be given outdoors, against the classic background of the Alexander gymnasium, with the audience seated in the circle in front of the building. The six social fraternities and the six social sororities, singing a capella, will compete as separate groups for two trophies which have been donated by local business houses. Fred Leech, Milwaukee, Miss Margaret Mercer, Evanston, and Miss Jane Cornell, who make up the awards committee, have announced that there may be other prizes for second and third places in both the fraternity and sorority groups.

Sponsored jointly by the two honorary societies, Mortar Board and Mace, the event will be held May 21 if weather conditions do not permit an outside function on May 14.

Miss Dorothy Mitchell, Chicago, heads the rules and judges committee; Kenneth Walker, Milwaukee, is chairman of the arrangements committee; Thomas Jenkin, Dear Creek, is publicity chairman; and Miss Margaret Mercer, Evanston, is program committee chairman.

Each fraternity and sorority will sing two songs of its own organization. A representative of each group will be selected to draw for order of appearance. The decision made by the three judges, to be based upon the selections themselves and the rendering of them, will be final.

Duffy Seeks Aid For Restoration Of Horicon Marsh

Washington—(P)—Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin planned today to seek the aid of the United States biological survey in an attempt to restore Horicon marsh in Wisconsin as a wild life refuge.

Decision to ask the survey for help came after the war department, through Major General E. M. Markham, chief of army engineers, told Duffy a flood control project at Horicon was "not justified."

"Studies of the use of Horicon marsh as a flood control reservoir and for stream flow regulation would be justified," General Markham said.

Use of the marsh as a reservoir for a flood control project had received the endorsement of Louis Radke, director of the Isaac Walton League of America, and other Wisconsin conservationists.

Senator Duffy has not publicly disclosed his position on the proposal to enlarge the supreme court, but said today he would "not oppose" a compromise which called for increasing the personnel by two or not more than three members.

Two Wisconsin visitors in Washington this week were Frank L. Zang, New London, and A. F. Campbell, Kewaunee. They chatted with Senator Duffy and described their visit as "purely social."

Culbertson Desires Interesting Hands

BY ELY CULBERTSON
I always am delighted to receive either sprightly or solemn accounts of interesting hands, feeling that they add a welcome human interest to this column. Of course, not all the hands sent to me are technically perfect but, considering that the imperfect ones are even more human than the others, I think I should use them, also.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson:
"I submit for your pleasure a remarkable example of how to pull the tough ones out of the fire with a little help from one's opponents." North, dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

"The bidding:
"North (that's I) bid a heart. South (my wife) bid two clubs. North bid two spades. South bid five clubs. East and West passed throughout.

"West opened spades through my secondary bid. South carelessly played the low spade from the dummy and took the trick with the king in her own hand! (A most unusual play usually used on opening leads before 'counting ten'). She then glanced toward the ceiling and counted softly to herself (I knew she wasn't counting).

"South now led a small club toward the nine in the dummy. She said afterwards that she hoped to drop the ace singleton (whatever that means). East won with the queen and returned (you'll never guess) — a spade! South discarded the jack of diamonds and two hearts on this trick and the following three spade leads from the dummy, trumped a diamond, and spread her hand conceding the ace of clubs, making five clubs."

"Later East asked, West why she hadn't led her ace of diamonds. West asked East why he led back a spade. Did I ask my wife why she didn't play the ace of spades on the opening lead? Did I ask her why we didn't play the hand at four hearts?"

"Not if I had left the room when she played a low spade from the dummy on the opening lead and, when I returned, she'd made five clubs, 4-1-v-e. And I know how she loves to play the tough ones!"

"Yours truly,
"W. B. S."

I am not certain that I can join my correspondent in his obvious enjoyment of his wife's ineptitude. He implies, although he does not so state, that declarer could have made the contract legitimately by putting up dummy's spade ace on the first lead. This, of course, is not so. Declarer could discard only two losses on the queen and jack of spades even if West had to follow to the third round. There still would be a loser in one of the red suits and two club losers. As the cards lay, West would have ruffed the third spade and declarer still would have had to lose two club tricks in addition to either a diamond or a heart.

Of course, the bidding was not so good and the contract reached was hardly the best. Four hearts was, of course, the correct spot.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Question: Partner opened the bidding with one club. Is my proper response one no trump or one diamond with the following?

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. L. FARRINGTON
Although not often seen in gardens, the spider plant is interesting and useful. It grows five feet tall and blooms until frost. It is particularly valuable for filling vacancies in the border or for marking boundaries, but it is not very satisfactory except in gardens which the owners visit in the morning or late in the afternoon, because in the middle of the day the flowers close. The castor-oil bean is another tall-growing plant and is used for its decorative foliage. It makes a good centre for canvas beds and also is useful grown along walks or near the entrance to a house. This castor-bean is said to keep mosquitoes away.

My Neighbor Says—

It is should not be fertilized with manure or with vegetable matter of any kind. These create an acid-soil condition that destroys the plants. Bone meal and potash are the best fertilizers to use.

If ivory enamel is to be used on furniture an undercoat of flat ivory paint should first be put on. Imperfections in the application of enamel will show less if a flat coat is first applied.

Never pour water on burning fat; it spreads blaze. Extinguish blaze with flour.

If iodine-stained linen is soaked in a solution of ammonia and water a teaspoon of ammonia to a point of water, stain will quickly disappear.

STRANGE EASTER TIME CUSTOMS
I—IN SPAIN
In some cities of southern Europe, religious processions take place during the last three days of Holy Week. The custom dates back several hundred years, to the period in history known as the Middle Ages.

Hooded figures in Spanish Easter-week procession.

In Italy, the cities of Rome and Florence are noted for these processions, and they also have been held in Palermo, Sicily, and Seville, Spain. This year in war-torn Spain we might expect the old customs to be forgotten, but here is a news dispatch recently cabled across the Atlantic:

"It is announced from Seville that the Holy Week processions and Easter festivals will be held as usual this year. A great influx of visitors is expected."

People in Seville (mostly men, but some women as well) have had the custom of dressing in long robes and marching through the city streets on the night of Holy Thursday. The marchers are laymen, but belong to brotherhoods or sisterhoods. This is a description of what has taken place in past years:

"Not until after midnight do members of the orders meet in their churches. Their robes are black, white or purple. They wear black coverings which stretch up as cones about two feet above the head, and which come down and cover the face, except for narrow slits in the cloth through which the eyes can be seen."

On the night of Good Friday, other processions of the same kind are held in Seville. People who do not take part go in crowds to the Plaza and other public places to watch the marchers go by.

Far older than the processions of Spain is the custom of lighting Easter fires in several countries of Europe. This custom goes back to times before the coming of the Christian faith, and was at first performed as a sign of joy over the beginning of spring. A goddess known as Eostre or Easter was honored as the ruler of spring. Christian bishops and priests tried to stamp out the Easter fire custom, but at length it was permitted. The fires usually are lighted on high hills or on mountains. Sometimes the lighting is done by rubbing wood against wood, and in other cases the fire is started with sparks made by striking flint against iron, steel or pyrite.

Some Postures of Children Definite Signs of Trouble

BY ANGELO PATRI
Children running about the house usually carry themselves well. Their posture is natural and easy and rather good than otherwise. After they go to school and are forced to sit so much they begin to droop forward, hunch themselves into awkward poses, which are bad for their growth. Parents and teachers begin correcting this, reminding the children to straighten their backs, to stand up tall, to stand straight, and the like. It all helps.

A very simple direction and one that helps a great deal is the old one, "Heads up." Smile when you say it, and the heads come up, the backs straighten, the posture improves. A child cannot hold his head up without holding himself up at the same time, and that is precisely what we want. All of him must go up, body and spirit must stand tall.

Tired children droop. Their shoulders bend forward, their heads droop toward their chests. They cave in at the middle. It is time they rested. They cannot relax completely in school, so the next best thing is to have them change their bodily and mental attitudes. Heads up. Stand up tall, get from here to there and do it rhythmically if possible.

Standing up, windows open, no draughts, and singing a jolly song is one very good way to restore the flagging spirits of school children. Even when it is not down on the program it should be used. Tired children cannot learn because they cannot hold their attention on the subject long enough to hear it. Rest them, change their attitudes, freshen the air they breathe, give them a happy thought to mull over, and their heads come up, their chests lift, and their eyes shine again. By that sign you know they are ready for work again.

I have no faith in the mechanical gymnastics for such purposes. Corrective gymnastics supervised by a skilled expert are fine for the prevention and cure of poor posture in those inclined toward it, but they are of little use to tired school children. They only add to the fatigue. Rhythm, music, a joyous, carefree movement will restore them, but the rigid, "One two, Right, Left," No.

There are some postures that are definite signs of trouble. When a child holds one shoulder high, swings one leg in a queer fashion, rotates his hips as he walks, don't bother him with protests about his posture, but send him directly to the expert. Have him thoroughly examined and train him to do the exercises the expert advises. Don't try to correct such a defect without the advice and close supervision of the skilled physician lest harm be done.

Healthy children are usually able to carry themselves well. Remind them in their drooping hours to hold their heads up. Give them a chance to relax and sing in their periods of depression. But send the children who have pronounced posture difficulties to the expert. Posture is important as an indication of a child's mental and physical condition. It is the outward sign of an inward state. It is not a separate function of the body, but an expression of its many functions. Look into it occasionally.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of the paper, inclosing a three-cent stamp, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Women Like To Collect Compliments

BY ELSIE PIERCE
MEN may prefer collecting stamps, books, paintings and autographed baseballs. But there's nothing we women like to collect more than compliments. It's altogether feminine, and delightfully so, I think, to crave and to thrive on compliments. The surest way to get a woman to do more for her good looks is to compliment her on them. Say "how clear your eyes look" and immediately she gets more rest, uses an eye wash, pays particular attention to her eye make-up. Tell her that her hands are artistic and she creams them more regularly and manicures her nails more frequently. Say "your skin is like a baby's, do keep it that way" and the chances are she will—at least she will make every effort to do so.

The worst way to drag a woman down is to tell her that she looks tired, that her hair is dull, that her skin needs clearing. Feminine psychology is like that. Tell her that her skin is badly broken out and you'll only send her to the depths of despair. But tell her that with a little attention she could have her skin looking like silk and that with a beautiful complexion she would be perfectly stunning, and you get her to act.

The Brighter the Outlook
This beauty business goes farther than we think. The better we look the brighter our outlook. Perhaps one reason is the fact that we are made happy by compliments and good looks call forth more compliments than any other attribute.

Spring is the open season for compliments. There is every reason for inspiring compliments. Fashion is with us every inch of the way. Such luscious colors in costume, such beautiful lines, such a variety of things to choose from—things that flatter, of course. The elements are with us too. Except for a little temperance, here and there, we don't have the harsh chill winds and the overheated indoors to contend with. So with a little preliminary treatment to shoo winter souvenirs it shouldn't be difficult to keep the skin satiny-smooth. For the hair there are brightening oil treatments, reconditioning treatments, shampoo treatments that build hair beauty almost magically, in a very short time. A new permament will do as much for your hair and your ego as a whole new Easter wardrobe. A new hair-do can make a new woman, a seemingly new personality of you. New make-up, by all means, to flatter you and your new clothes. All in all you should try all the lovely new things the beauty world offers for spring, because it's the open season for collecting compliments.

My complete new booklet "Roads to Beauty" (Booklet 201) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to The Bell Library, c-o this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y. (Copyright, 1937.)

Women Like To Collect Compliments

GOOD TASTE TODAY
BY EMILY POST
A B C'S IN MANNERS
1. Is it considered better manners, when there are only seated single seats in a bus, for a boy to stand near the girl he is with than for him to take a seat some distance away? Some of the boys always stand nearby and there are others who always sit no matter where the place happens to be. We girls wondered whether one way was more polite than the other.

Answer: If the distance they are going is short and a boy is actually accompanying her, he ought to stand nearby. But if the distance is very long, he would naturally sit wherever there is a place.

2. Will you please tell us on what occasions the much advertised "housecoat" is worn, or velvet, or whatever the material happens to be, may be worn?

Answer: Housecoats, as they are illustrated in the fashion magazines would seem to be the young and modern version of a tea gown, which can be worn at home at any informal afternoon tea party, or cocktail party, or for an informal dinner when you are not dressing in evening clothes.

3. A friend of mine is designing a book-plate for me, and now she has asked me how I want my name put in, with title or just as Sara F. Smith or perhaps using my nickname, "Sunny." Is there any propriety?

Answer: If this book-plate is to be seriously done and you intend to use it in your library always, and if you are moreover a book-loving person, then Sara Felding Smith is the name that should be put in it. On the other hand, if you are having an amusing and gay design then "This book belongs to 'Sunny' (without or with Smith—depending whether any others in your group have the same nickname) would be all right.

4. When may a school dance be called a ball? Is there any set rule about calling it one thing or the other?

Answer: Properly no school dance is a ball, because pupils in school are not supposed to be "out" in society, which going to balls would certainly denote. On the other hand, it is important as an indication of a child's mental and physical condition. It is the outward sign of an inward state. It is not a separate function of the body, but an expression of its many functions. Look into it occasionally.

Mother Who Always Takes Children's Side is Wrong

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—My sister and her husband are having difficulties over their children. He is a high-type, successful man, a good father and devoted to his children. Like any father who undertakes to keep up with children, to require them to study, to do their chores around the house, to live within their allowances, et cetera, he occasionally has trouble with them. Nothing serious, just the usual conflict with youngsters. He handles such matters wisely and kindly, and in a few minutes it is all over and the children are hanging around their father for they are very fond of him. But my sister always throws herself into the dispute on the side of the children, no matter whether they are right or wrong. She protests the father's discipline and tries to make them feel that he is cruel and that they are being persecuted. Naturally, my brother-in-law resents his wife's attitude. He is losing respect for her, and I can see that they have begun to drift apart. What is your opinion, and can you suggest a remedy?

A READER.

My opinion is that your sister is committing a crime, for which she will have to pay, in all probability, by losing her husband and having her children grow up into being the wild youngsters who bring shame and sorrow on their parents. But I have no remedy to suggest whereby she may be brought to see what a mistake she is making. Nothing can cure a silly mother of her silliness.

Unfortunately, your sister is not alone in her folly. There are millions like her. Women who are so besotted by their mother love that they cannot see that their children have a single fault, or bear to have them corrected; who think that if little Mary wants to smash jam all over your best frock that you should let the darling amuse herself that way, and that the neighbors are old grumps because they object to Johnny breaking their windows when he is in a playful mood. They are sure that Tommy, teachers give him bad marks because they have a spite against the little dear; that Bobby doesn't mean anything when he is caught pilfering.

They are so weak they let their children run roughshod over them. They never discipline their children or teach them to control their appetites. They let them grow up overbearing, ill-mannered, disobedient, insulting, a law unto themselves. Then they wonder why it is that their children turned out so badly. Why they are always having to hush up scandals and pay them out of trouble; why they are loafers, idlers and no earthly good in the world.

"As you sow so shall you reap," is nowhere else so inexorably true as in the rearing of children. Bring them up in the way they should go, and they will not depart from it, once in a thousand times. I never see a man or woman who is a failure in life, who is a waster, who is a waster, who is a waster, without knowing that he or she was a spoiled child whose mother ruined him or her.

We often wonder why fathers take so little active part in rearing their children, and why, when they see their children ruined by a foolish mother, they don't do something.

Why Laxatives Fail In Stubborn Constipation

Twelve to 24 hours is too long to wait when relief from clogged bowels and constipation is needed, for then enormous quantities of bacteria accumulate, causing GAS, indigestion and many restless, sleepless nights. It is your need for QUICK RELIEF, take a liquid compound such as Adrika. Adrika contains powerful cathartic and carminative ingredients that act on the stomach and BOTH bowels, thus relieving the constipation. It contains one ingredient that acts on the lower bowel only. DOUBTLESS ACTION gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old poisonous waste matter for excretion. It relieves gas, sour stomach, headaches and sleepless nights for months.

Adrika relieves stomach GAS at once and usually removes bowel congestion in less than two hours. No waiting for overcast results! This famous treatment has been recommended by many doctors. Take Adrika one-half hour before breakfast or one hour before bedtime and in a short while you will feel wonderfully refreshed.

Dates Arranged For New London Labor Institute

Prominent Speakers are Secured for April 16, May 7

New London—The dates for New London's Labor Institute have been changed to Friday April 16 and Friday May 7, it was announced this week by the committee. The event had been tentatively set for April 9 and 16. This is the second annual institute and forum held here under the joint auspices of New London organized labor and the University of Wisconsin's School for Workers in Industry. Negotiations were made with Miss Alice Shoenrock, director of the school.

Prominent speakers have been secured for the 2-day program. Paul Porter, Kenosha, editor of "The Kenosha Labor," official publication of the Kenosha Trades and Labor Council, will speak the evening of April 16 on "The Automotive Strikes and Labor Today." He will discuss the present labor situation and the significance of the motor strikes to organized labor. He also will give his views on the causes of the present upsurge and the prospects for the future.

U. W. Speaker

On Friday, May 7, John R. Barton, professor of rural sociology at the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture, extension division, will speak on "Labor, the Farmer and the Cooperative." Professor Barton is an expert on co-operatives, has taught seven years in the Danish Folk schools of Denmark and has had extensive experience in the cooperative movement.

The institute program will be held in Labor hall this year instead of the high school as last year. The work of remodeling the building has progressed rapidly and the committee has been assured the new front entrance will be completed in ample time for the meeting.

Entertainment and music by local amateur talent at both meetings is planned. The program will be announced in detail later. The joint institute committee representing the four labor unions in New London is composed of Francis M. Griswold, Edgar Wirt, Frank Specht, Edward Hetzer, Art Gottschalk and Walter Lewis.

Women's Society And Girls Group To Give Program

New London—The Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist church and the Queen Esther circle will join in a special joint program at the church at 2:30 Friday afternoon. Betty and Audrey Deen will open the program with the song, "Christ is Risen," followed with the devotional topic by Mrs. Edna Deiler. Mrs. F. C. Andrews will have the topic "Pen Points" and Mrs. Ralph R. Holli-day will talk on "The Negro Study." "The White Side of a Black Subject" will be discussed by Mrs. L. S. McGregor. The lentenide appreciation and lenten offering service will be conducted by members of the group. Mrs. C. J. Dean and Mrs. L. S. McGregor arranged the program and the service is open to everyone.

OUT THAT COLD

-Roots and All-Give It No Chance to Sprout Anew!

Take no cold lightly! The so-called "common cold" is often the start of more serious trouble—flu and pneumonia, for example.

Treat a cold to root it out—merely to subdue it!

Depend on no halfway measures. A cold being an internal infection, must be got at from the inside.

Treat a cold with a cold preparation, not with a medicine good for all kinds of ailments.

The wise treatment is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

Expressly For Colds!

Bromo Quinine is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds.

It is also internal treatment and of four important effects.

First, Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, a desirable step in the treatment of colds.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

The Action Called For

These are the four effects a cold calls for and in Bromo Quinine you get it in the form of a single tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain.

The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Be wise—play safe! The moment you feel a cold coming on, go right to your druggist for a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

Begin taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours. That procedure will often break up a cold in 24 hours.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing but pure, natural ingredients. It is safe and does not harm the system. The cold is small, but the stake is large.

Basketball Letter Winners Named At Victory Dinner Last Evening

New London—Basketball letter awards to nine New London High school eagers were announced by Coach D. N. Stacy last night following the victory dinner sponsored by the Rotary club at the Elwood hotel. Rotarians were hosts to the squad and coaches at the banquet but the principal speaker, Coach A. C. Denney of Appleton, was unable to be present because of the storm.

Those who will be given letters next week are Melvin Glocke, Ned Denning, Robert Yost, Bernard Stern, Charles Nader, Francis Meinhardt, Lee Smith, Herman Platte and James Mesnick.

Prior to the dinner Glocke was named honorary captain for the occasion by squad members. Stewart Hammerberg was present at the dinner but did not earn a letter award this year. He played steadily with the B squad throughout the year and filled out the A reserve squad on the bench. He saw some action in conference play.

Discuss Future

Future activities of the graduating members were discussed in a talk by Coach Stacy who urged that the boys be encouraged to continue their work in higher schools. New London will be left with only one regular next year, Ben Stern. Glocke, Denning, Yost, Nader and Platte are seniors and will graduate this spring. An entirely new first string will have to be built up around the reserves. Future plans of the graduates are indefinite.

The record of New London High school teams in district tournaments the past four years was outlined by Superintendent H. H. Helms. The Red and White has won 10 and lost only 1 tournament game in the time that the school champions have been in the school. The one loss was to Sturgeon Bay by one point in the semi-finals in 1935. Coach Stacy asked Rotarians to judge the teams on their showing and ability, not only by the number victories or comparative scores.

Mr. Helms also reported on the financial outcome of the regional tournament here last week and explained how the funds are distributed. He pointed out the increased facilities for easier handling of larger crowds at the local school and expressed satisfaction in the support shown by the public.

Merton S. Zahrt, high school music director, entertained with several clarinet solos.

For the little children the following will be available: "The War of the Wooden Soldiers," Loraine and the Little People of Summer. The Goody-Naughty Book. Little Red Riding-Hood. The House that Jack Built, and Patsy Ann. The latter is a popular picture book with dolls as the subjects.

Outagamie county received $8,480.71 while last year's list amounted to more than $14,000, the treasurer pointed out. The counties accepted the delinquents as full payment.

Little Opposition At Kimberly Polls In Spring Election

Seven Running for Three Trustee Posts and Two For Supervisor

Kimberly—Seven candidates for trustee and two for supervisor provide the only competition there will be in the spring election next month. Three trustees out of the seven will be elected for two-year terms. All the candidates in the field have filed their nomination papers.

The incumbent trustees are Henry J. Kilsdonk, Joseph Kuborn, and William Behling. They will be opposed by Len Goffard, John Busch, Jr., Henry M. Kilsdonk and Henry Williams who is also seeking the office of supervisor from incumbent Lloyd Lang.

In recent years there have always been an average of eight to ten candidates in the trustee column in addition to opposition to most of the other offices.

This year the voters face a new problem, if they choose to vote for either one of the Henry Kilsdonks, who only have a second initial to identify themselves on the ballot, Henry J. Kilsdonk is the incumbent trustee and chairman of the relief committee, while Henry M. Kilsdonk is seeking the office. Both men have been candidates for the same office before but never in the same year.

Other incumbent officers seeking reelection are: Village President Lloyd Lang; Clerk Paul Lockschmidt; Treasurer Harry Van Hoken; Constable John Bernhardt; Assessor Martin Vande Hey and Justice of the Peace Gus Hangen.

The Rosary will be said at Holy Name church at 7:30 Thursday evening. At 8 o'clock Friday morning there will be a mass of the presanctified. At 2:30 Friday afternoon and at 7:30 Friday evening stations of the cross will be said. Confessions will be heard Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon confessions will be heard from 3 o'clock to 5:30 and in the evening after services.

The Grandma's club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Harp Tuesday evening. Bingo was played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Emil Brier, first; Mrs. George Rosecrantz, second; Mrs. Fred Kroenke, third. Next week the club will meet at the home of Mrs. Fred Kroenke.

Dykstra Urged to Quit Cincinnati Job June 11

Cincinnati—(U)—City Manager C. A. Dykstra was urged today to yield to sentimental considerations and make his resignation effective June 11, the seventh anniversary of his succession to office.

Dykstra has accepted the presidency of the University of Wisconsin and formally notified city council yesterday of his action.

Mayor Russell Wilson suggested the date and Dykstra, remaining officially noncommittal, declared that although he plans to leave office May 1, he is scheduled to return for a commencement address before graduates of the University of Cincinnati on June 11.

New Deal Seeking New Definition of Property Rights

Lawrence Sees Trend of Administration Policy in Landis Address

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Months before President Roosevelt embarks on a new policy, the trend of the new deal can usually be foreseen or inferred from the writings and speeches of the nine or more "young men" who turn with him with most of the ideas he embodies in his public addresses. James M. Landis is one of these "young men." His position as chairman of the securities and exchange commission indicates the reliance placed by Mr. Roosevelt in his capacity, and the selection of Mr. Landis by the board of trustees of Harvard Law school to be the dean of that institution beginning next autumn is an indication of how Mr. Landis ranks in his profession as a teacher of law.

For these reasons it is pertinent today—in order to understand the future—to examine the text of a carefully prepared address just delivered by Mr. Landis by the board of trustees of Harvard Law school to be the dean of that institution beginning next autumn is an indication of how Mr. Landis ranks in his profession as a teacher of law.

For these reasons, it is pertinent today—in order to understand the future—to examine the text of a carefully prepared address just delivered by Mr. Landis before the eastern conference of law students, in which he made not exactly a defense of "sit-down" strikes as practiced today, but of the right of workers to stop production as a means of securing satisfaction of their grievances. The paragraph which reveals what Mr. Landis is thinking about—and to a certain extent what Secretary Perkins meant, when she said the legality of "sit-down" strikes is still undecided—read as follows:

Legality Doubtful
"We have witnessed for some years the effort of employers to bring about recognition of their claim to be free to persuade others to refrain from taking their places, who, by such action, would diminish the effectiveness of their own economic pressure. In recent months, we have seen the advancement of a new claim to take measures that will effectively prevent all production until grievances are satisfied—action that in its economic effects is the counterpart of the lockout, but because of the absence of any relationship such as the lockout possesses to property, finds itself with doubtful traditional legal justification."

The eventual outcome of such a claim will depend in part upon the emphasis that law will give to the concept of property and its inviolability in its industrial and corporate setting to economic pressure of this type—and in part, perhaps, on the capacity of our law to devise new concepts and mechanisms to meet the needs out of which this type of economic pressure has been born."

It will be noted that Mr. Landis uses the word "doubtful" to qualify "traditional" namely that "sit-down" strikes merely have behind them no tradition of legal justification, which can be taken to mean, of course, that, because they do not possess such legal justification on precedent, they may now be declared legal as a necessary part of a system of social and economic justice.

Concept Modified
In Europe, of course Russia, Italy and Germany have distinctly modified the traditional concepts of property. Private property as an institution has been under attack in America where many so-called liberals think the state should own various businesses in entirety or complete with existing private businesses until the property of the private owners is rendered worthless—a form, indeed, of gradual confiscation.

Mr. Landis reveals how the process of creating "new rights" comes out of the evolution of law itself.

MACDONALD AND EDDY PLAY IN 'MAYTIME'

Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald, triumphant sweethearts of "Rose Marie" and "Naughty Marietta," will again be seen together in the delightful musical romance, "Maytime," which opens at the Rio theater Saturday.

"The history of our law is replete with illustrations of the creation of new rights. In the employer and employee relationship, the right of employees to quit work together, for the simple end of improving the conditions of labor found recognition only in the early nineteenth century. Indeed, the right to strike, and through such economic pressure to force collective bargaining found no recognition in this country until the turn of this century."

Want Backing of Law
"But this insistence upon collective bargaining refuses to stand still. It is pushing itself now from a claim to use economic pressure toward the accomplishment of this end to an insistence that the law itself shall impose a duty upon the employer to endeavor conscientiously to arrange a collective labor contract with his employees when a majority of them so desire."

The foregoing in substance is what the Wagner Labor Relations act has provided, and it remains now for the supreme court of the United States to say whether compulsory agreement, insofar as it affects action of the employer, is an impairment of his freedom of contract. This particular point has not arisen in any lawsuit as yet, but, if the Wagner act is sustained in part, as seems reasonable to expect, the next step be the determination of a controversy hinging on the supposed obligation of the employer to come to an understanding with a majority of his employees on terms of a contract even when he feels such terms would be economically dangerous for him to grant if he intends to keep out of bankruptcy or receivership.

Favor Court Plan
It is very important, of course, who shall define the supreme law of the land Mr. Landis wants President Roosevelt to be given the power to add six new justices at once to the supreme court, and he insists that this is necessary because of the previous decisions of members of the court. It is but another way of saying that, given a friendly supreme court, the "sit-down" strike as an economic weapon will some day win approval if embodied in a statute.

What is generally overlooked by the Landis school of thought is that the right to strike and the right to picket plants where production has stopped has not gone unlimitedly heretofore and that the simple use of physical violence or physical in-

655 Pupils Deposit $170 During Monthly Bank Day at School

With 655 out of 1,702 students depositing $170.55 during banking periods at public schools last week, the total now on deposit at the First National bank is $10,692.43, according to Miss Ruth Wassmann. A total of $97.61 was withdrawn by 23 students last week.

Deaf room pupils had a 100 per cent mark when seven students deposited $3.58. The largest sum, $53.29, was deposited by 186 Roosevelt Junior High school students. The grade division was led by Edison school when 71 pupils deposited, $22.54.

Other deposits were Columbus, $13.52, Jefferson, $21.27, McKinley, $4.19, Washington, $4.34, Franklin, $4.02, Lincoln, $3.90, opportunity room 66 cents, McKinley Junior High school $8.89, Wilson Junior High school, $32.25.

Unidation to attain an economic end has never before been sanctioned by law or by the courts and yet it exists as a weapon largely because of an alliance between labor and the politicians. Government bodies have been captured by pressure groups through political power. This is not a trend that looks for the solution of difficulties in fair and equitable interpretations of laws or constitutions, but looks to a growth of lawlessness and mob rule. Concepts of law, new and old, are worthless unless administrative officers enforce existing law.

Both Sides at Fault
To say that the right to strike has been universally recognized or that picketing has been sanctioned is to say that all the incidental violence connected with strikes has also been sanctioned. Actually, violence and intimidation, as practiced by thugs and strike breakers hired by union labor, has no more backing in law than the hiring of thugs and strike breakers by employers, and in modern labor warfare there is unfortunately plenty of it on both sides.

What Mr. Landis and his colleagues in the New Deal are working toward is a new definition of property. They want property affected with a public interest. When that is obtained they will want government to determine the uses of property. Norman Thomas and the Socialist party will go along with them, and so will the communists, too.

The WORLD OF STAMPS

BY QUINTON JAMES

When Adolf Hitler's portrait goes on a postage stamp, he will become the second head of the German government to be so honored while living. The other was President Paul von Hindenburg.

The Hitler issue is due April 20, his forty-eighth birthday. It is intended to replace the present von Hindenburg stamps bearing the late president's head in profile facing left. These have been in use since 1932, undergoing various color and watermark changes.

Only within recent years have individuals, living or dead, been pictured on German stamps. Even during the reign of Kaiser Wilhelm, as well as for several years before and after his reign, no person was pictured. Von Hindenburg achieved a philatelic honor never paid the Kaiser.

One of the most familiar empire designs was the allegorical female figure of Germania, a head-and-shoulders view, which was printed from 1900 until the formation of the German republic after the World war in 1919.

The republic continued the policy of impersonal designs and pictorials until 1924. These included the inflation issues of 1924, with the large numeral of value in the center. The sets had as their highest value a 50,000,000,000-mark denomination.

Precedent was broken in 1924, when the first German stamps bearing the portrait of an individual were printed. That was the Universal Postal union issue, commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of its founding. Shown on these stamps was Dr. Heinrich von Stephan, founder of the union. He died in 1897.

But it was not until 1927 that the then living von Hindenburg appeared on a semi-postal stamp. The issue marked the late field marshal's eightieth birthday. The stamps, in four values—8, 15, 25 and 39 marks—bore the dates 1847-1927.

That set up another precedent for the living, although the von Stephan issue was followed in 1926 by a set illustrating German music masters who had passed on.

When a new regular postage issue was decided upon in 1928, von Hindenburg's portrait again was used.

Eighth Graders Prepare Stained Glass Designs

Stained glass window designs are being prepared by eighth grader art students at Roosevelt Junior High school and will be entered in a contest sponsored by the Green Bay Women's association. An exhibit of posters is now being shown in the art room with all work done by eighth and ninth grade students. Subjects for the displays are travel tours to the Rockies, Hawaii and Cuba.

It was alternated with that of former President Ebert, whose death had been followed in 1925 by von Hindenburg's election.

Then came the 1932 change in design, the stamps issued primarily to commemorate Hindenburg's eighty-fifth birthday. Upon his death in 1934, a number of these stamps were printed with black borders as a mourning issue.

The forthcoming Hitler issue no doubt will be put into general use for both domestic and foreign mail, including that coming to this country. The number of stamps in the issue probably will be the same as those now in current use—17 denominations running from 3 to 100 pennings.

Says Government In Mexico Threat To Industry There

Natives Have No Desire to Invest Funds in Business, Says Speaker

American industries in Mexico will have to be abandoned within two years if the present system of government there is continued and the country will suffer because Mexicans don't have ambition to manage or desire to invest money in industry, J. Bon Davis told members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Conway hotel.

Mexico is a "mismanaged but solvent business" with a wealth of natural resources including silver, oil, lumber and minerals, he said. The United States is responsible for the development of Mexico with Americans investing millions of dollars there and paying the majority of taxes, Mr. Davis pointed out.

"Labor is in the saddle in Mexico and riding hard with the ballot meaning nothing and the power of government dependent upon the approval of the army. A strike is always successful for if the employer can't pay, the laborers take over the plant and offer to give the owner the profits, if there are any," he said.

Influence on Religion
Restrictions placed by the government on the church won't hamper religious work but the teaching of atheism and communism for 20 minutes out of every school period will have a devastating influence on religion the speaker said.

Mr. Davis recently returned from a trip through Mexico and he described part of the tour at the meeting yesterday. He classed the Pan-American highway which his party traveled from the border to Mexico City as one of the safest sections of road in the world.

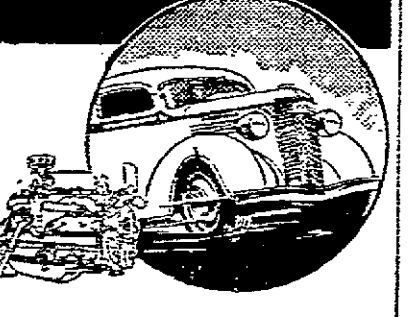

After traveling less than 155 miles into Mexico and seeing the mud houses where Indians live in a primitive state with no stoves or beds, one feels as though he were seeing conditions of 500 years ago, Mr. Davis said.

Monterrey, where the speaker saw a bull-fight, is the Chicago of Mexico with American customs evident every where he said. Mexico City was classed by the speaker as a city of contrasts with dire poverty in one section and beautiful cathedrals the national palace and floating gardens in other sections.

Opportunity for Graft In Income Tax System

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington—There is a dangerous weakness in the administration of the federal income tax which provides an opportunity for graft on the part of the reviewing agents, and for harassment of the taxpayer for political or personal motives.

The reviewing agents are given discretion in many cases to approve, curtail or entirely disallow deductions and raise the tax, a power which obviously creates a temptation for a dishonest agent to strike a private compromise with the subject. It may be that the government is fortunate enough to have only honest men in this service, and I claim no evidence to the contrary, but the opportunity is there nevertheless in a field of problems known as the twilight zone.

The best protection, and the only sure way of preventing graft, is to provide definite checks, and these do not exist in the type of cases referred to here. There is espionage to back up the honesty of honest men and worry the dishonest agents, if any, but crooks take chances in any zone of operations.

But even if the agent is strictly honest as to personal honesty, he still has a power to render the victim on behalf of the government, merely because of some personal dislike for him. This puts the citizen at a disadvantage, for he must plead for the agent's favor and abide by his whim when the law should strictly define his rights and permit him to stand on them.

Offending Agent May Mean Additional Cost

If he offends the agent, who is only human, whether by the cut of his lip, his political views or the smell of his pipe, he runs the risk of an adverse decision and a loss of money which might not occur if he could only harmonize with the government representative. I would like to believe that the agents are all above such conduct, but my experience of human nature and men who are given optional powers in the public service is not reassuring.

In addition to all this, the agents have a right to delve deep into the taxpayer's private accounts, and thus intrude in matters so intimate as to be none of the government's business. Conceivably this could lead to blackmail, and at the very best sets up a personal inquisition certainly no less searching than the questionnaires to which organized labor takes such violent exception in large industrial plants.

If the hardy freeman of the republic thinks his privacy is invaded by some of the questions which are sacrifice of self-respect. The truth is, however, that the agents themselves are rated according to their work and conduct, and may be called to strict account for abuse of their position if the taxpayer is sure of his own ground and willing to go to the trouble.

The taxpayer naturally does not like to take an appeal from the reviewer's decision if the amount involved is small, as it often is. He may decide to skip it and pay off to avoid expense and trouble. But if he has reason to believe that the agent has teased him around for spite or for any other reason, he may go to the local collector about it or, mistaking him, carry his grievance to the secretary of the treasury.

However, that is small assurance. Because under the existing system the discretionary powers of the reviewers combined with the taxpayer's reluctance to carry things further constitutes the germ of an American G. P. U.

Chicago Team in
5th Straight Win
Over N. Y. BoxersPaul Hartneck, Kenosha, Defeated in Heavyweight Contest

CHICAGO—(P)—Chicago's Golden Gloves forces had their fifth team triumph over New York's champions today, thanks to some sensational slugging by its little and middle-sized boys.

After losing the first two bouts, the championship and alternate events in the 112-pound division last night before a crowd of 21,280 in the Chicago Stadium, the Chicago warriors won the championship tests in the next five divisions to take a lead they never gave up, and win by nine victories to seven.

Al Scarlata of St. Norbert college, DePere, Wis., handed Morris Parker, New York, a beating in the 118-pound class. Scarlata's teammate, Saylor Canadeo, a 135-pounder, did not fare so well, however, dropping a close decision to Richard Cremar, New York. Scarlata and Canadeo were members of the Green Bay Golden Gloves teams.

Dan Dandorf of New York, stopped Nick Lubovich of Milwaukee, in the first round of the light-heavyweight alternate bout to start a New York rally, and Charles Jackson of New York, continued the desperate effort by outpointing Mike Minnich in the championship 175-pound bout.

Joe Matisi, a rugged high school boy from Binghamton, N. Y., scored a sensational upset outpointing a more experienced rival, Paul Hartneck, Kenosha, Wis., a former Creighton college football star, in the heavyweight final. His triumph, however, came too late for Lem Jackson, Cleveland Negro with a terrific punch had clinched the team title for Chicago by stopping Ed Crawford of Nashville, Tenn., in the first round of the alternate heavyweight bout.

Sebring, Fla.—(P)—Brooklyn's Dodgers have a track coach, but Manager Chuck Dressen said today he was considering a boxing mentor for the Cincinnati Reds as an "aid" to their base-running.

He added that Mike Gibbons, former claimant to the world middleweight title, may be the man. Orders to last year's fifth-placers to "hit the dirt and go in with spikes flashing" have brought souawks from every team the Reds have met thus far, Dressen said, adding:

"It looks like we're in for a lot of trouble all along the line this season and that's all right with me. I want my boys to run hard and fight to the last ditch. We'll probably have plenty of battles and I can think of no better guy in the world than Mike Gibbons to teach them the art of self defense."

General Manager Warren C. Giles indicated favor of Dressen's style of play, declaring "we're asking for no quarter on the basepaths and we'll give none."

The Brooklyn club recently hired a track coach to instruct Dodgers in quick-getaways.

Oshkosh All Stars will end the season's competition with professional basketball games tonight and Saturday against the New York Renaissance, a Negro quintet.

Training Camp Briefs

By the Associated Press
ATLANTA, BEACH, Fla.—Paul Dean and St. Johnson were nominated by Manager Frank Frisch to hurl against Columbus at De Land today. Bill McGee and Nando Andrews will face Washington at Orlando Saturday and Dazy Dean and Jim Winford will divide the task when Detroit comes here Sunday.

San Antonio, Tex.—The Browns leave Friday on a four-day trip, to play two games with San Antonio at Laredo, one with Toledo at Harlingen, and one with Kansas City at McAllen. The Hornsby team was slated to meet the Bottomley nine in an exhibition game at Lockhart today.

Winter Haven, Fla.—The Phillies' rookie keystone combination, Del Young, second, and Charley Scharen, short, continues to impress Manager Wilson. The pair handled 16 chances without a flaw and made two double plays in a game the Phils lost to the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 3.

Orlando, Fla.—Sydney Cohen, swarthy 25-year-old left-hander, has won praise from Manager Buckey Harris for his pitching in the Washington Senators' games in the training camp circuit. Syd came here as a relief pitching prospect.

Pasadena, Calif.—Manager Jimmy Dykes planned to experiment with the White Sox batting order today in a clash with the Pirates, which was washed out yesterday. Rip Radcliff, Larry Rosenthal and Dixie Walker, the three top men, must not left-handed pitching to hold their spots.

Avalon, Calif.—The Cubs took their final workout at Catalina Island today, then hustled for a boat to Los Angeles and the White Sox game Friday. Linus Frye, obtained from Brooklyn, impressed Manager Grimm with his play at third and short as well as second base.

Sebring, Fla.—Bringing his Cincinnati Reds here today to play Newark of the International loop, Manager Chuck Dressen declared Frank McCormick, prize Piedmont rookie "is ready for the majors right now," but "where can I play him?"

Cleveland Indians are Mystery Team of Majors

NEW ORLEANS—(P)—Even the shickest crystal ball gazer would toss up his hands and retire when he came to forecasting the Cleveland Indians of 1937.

The team, led by the sensational, Bob Feller, can win the American league pennant, or it can fall right back into the wilderness of second division without causing the flutter of an eyebrow.

It's the mysterious club of big time baseball.

Probably 90 per cent of the team's chances depend on Kid Feller and the veteran catcher, Frank Pytlak. If Feller can come through as advertised and Pytlak can catch 100 games without looking up a first class hospital for fancy repairs, the Indians may stage an uprising that'll scalp every enemy club in the circuit.

So far, Feller looks greater than great. The 18-year-old school boy pitcher from Iowa has developed a fine change of pace down here to go with his fast ball and sweeping curve.

Pytlak has been a problem for years. A great catcher and a dangerous hitter, his problem has been ruggedness. In four years with Cleveland, he has failed to catch more than 91 games, retiring in 1936 after but 73. Pytlak reported in fine physical and mental shape this spring but he still is a problem. If he couldn't catch 100 games before Manager Steve O'Neill can hardly expect that many from him this year when he's a vet of 28.

On paper, the Indians appear greatly improved over last season when they hit the skids and landed in sixth place. Although Joe Vosmik's punch will be missed, Manager O'Neill believes the big swap with the St. Louis Browns, gave the team better balance and lifted its spirit.

Pitching again will be the strong point of the Tribe's pennant argument. O'Neill can and may carry 10 pitchers with Mel Harder, Johnny Allen, Dennis Galeshous, Earl Whitehill and Feller composing a starting "big five," all right-handers except for Whitehill. The three reserves, undoubtedly, will be Ivy Andrews, obtained from the Browns, Lloyd Brown, and Willis Hudlin.

Whitlow Wyatt, who won another big league trial at Kansas City with 12 victories, and Tommy Drake, a strong right hander up from New Orleans, seem to have clinched the other two pitching jobs.

Infield Looks Good

The coming of Lyn Lary from St. Louis has forced O'Neill to stretch his infield with fine results. Lary has been stationed at shortstop in place of Bill Knickerbocker, who went to the Browns "Bad News" team. Sammy Hale has been shifted from third to second and Roy Hughes has been transferred from second to third. The shift has given the Indians their snappiest looking infield in many a moon.

There should be plenty of class and punch in the Indian outfield. Earl Averill, a .378 hitter last season, will be in centerfield; Julius Solters, the ex-Browns' whose three year major league batting average stands at .304, with patrol left, and either Bruce Campbell or Roy Weatherly will hold down right field.

Weatherly hit .335 last season and starred on defense. But Campbell is giving him a great battle for a regular's job. Refusing to go down, and out after two serious attacks of spinal meningitis, Campbell, who was hitting .372 when he collapsed last season, is back in camp and belted the cover off the ball. Weatherly will have his hands full beating Bruce out of a job.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

APPLETON High school basketball team finished the 1936-37 season in second place in the Fox River Valley conference standings and with a record of three defeats against fifteen wins. All of which is pretty good in any man's league.

Of course the Terrors shot for the championship; that's proper and perfectly natural when you have a pretty fair ball club and they were disappointed when they dropped the Manitowoc game and the Oshkosh contest which meant the championship. We saw them lose both the contests and there wasn't any reason to complain. The other fellows were better. That's all. Perhaps in a three game series the Terrors might come through but that's all over now.

The Terrors were an experienced ball team and they played that way. They weren't particularly strong in the forward positions, at center they were just average and when Slattery was shifted to forward then the guards were just ordinary. But the boys were a team, a group that worked together well a group that temperamentally was just about what a coach wanted: It could be stirred to heights yet it wasn't so high-strung that it might "blow" at any minute.

At one stage in the race one or two of the boys got down on their luck when they didn't get the breaks and the going became tougher, but generally speaking the whole squad acted like gentlemen, win or lose, and was a credit to the high school.

And what about next year? Well, Glenn Bowers and Jim Bailey return and will be surrounded by a goodly aggregation of players from the second squad. The seconds lost only one game during the season.

Unless some of the boys grow a whole lot in the next nine months the Terrors will be comparatively small when the 1937-38 season gets underway, but they'll be able to handle the ball and they'll know a lot about basketball. Some of the other teams will have an edge on them in experience, perhaps, but Appleton again will be right in the thick of the race. Next year's reserve squad will show some pretty fair talent from the sophomore class of this year and from the ninth graders who'll be coming up from the junior highs.

Gold Sox volleyballs in the Ladies league were snowbound last night while the other clubs reported at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium as usual and as a result the Gold Sox dropped three.

The Blue Sox took first place honors with three wins. One was over the Gold Sox, 15 to 0, another over the White Sox, 15 to 12, and from the ninth graders who'll be coming up from the junior highs.

Both Roosevelt and Wilson had excellent squads again and the respective coaches said they had boys who should be all-conference caliber by the time they get to be juniors.

About the only sour note, so far as we are concerned, entered into the basketball picture when school officials barred Wilson and Roosevelt junior high teams from competing in the Valley Freshman league composed of Kaukauna, Menasha, Neenah and New London. The objection was reported to have come when New London joined the circuit making necessary a 40-mile trip now and then. That seems a little narrow, however, for a 40-mile trip in a car nowadays is only 60 minutes riding under conditions that are a lot safer than trying to cross streets in traffic. We hope that next season some will change their mind and let the kids play.

One pleasing angle about basketball locally was that the Catholic school youngsters are getting opportunities they never had before. The three larger schools had teams this year, some of them a couple teams, and in this connection the junior high school gymnasiums were offered the youngsters for games and practices.

It's a good habit to continue.

WALLY GRENZEN of Tuttle Press shot a 622 series and 244 game to grab scoring honors in Industrial league matches last night at the Arcade alleys. His team had high series of 2960 and high game with 1,013. For 14 of the 16 teams it was a matter of winning three or losing a like number.

Despite its high totals, Tuttle dropped one game to the Wire Works squad. Frosty Johnston had a 588 series and 224 game for the losers. Kunitz had 578 for the Tuttle while Annie Kelly got a 203 single game.

Conway Hotel practically clinched the pennant by tripping the Tuttle Cubs in three games. The Hotelals had a 3-game margin on first place with only two weeks of bowling left. John Tornow had 578 for Conway with Schwerbel getting a 207 count. Bob Leseleyoung spilled a 583 total and 203 game for the Cubs with Schade rolling 212 in his one effort.

The Power company keglers finally hit the skids and dropped three games to Company D. Herb Pienaar was the main cog for the winners with 579 and game of 214 and 210. Al Stillman kept the Power company in the running with 516 and 181.

Paced by Ken Smith's 570 total, Pond Sports won three from Standard Manufacturers. Smith and Charles Pond had 199 games for both winners. Standard was paced by Bob Schmidt with 587 and a 206 count.

Erv Weiss continued in the role of pacemaker as the Post-Crescent team finally won three games in one night. Wadham was the victims with Clarence Buck setting the pace on 503 and 197. Weiss cracked a 567 series and 204 game while Eddie Starnard had 197.

Wadham's bowlers wrecked the Machine company for three games with Al Ayres setting the pace on a 554 total and 188 game. Wayne Rowan had 513 and 199 for the Machinists.

Bowling against scratch, Woolen Mills won three games from Buth Oils and advanced to a tie for second place. Clem DeYoung shot a 547 series and 223 game for the Mills.

Atlas Mill stayed in the race for second place with a 3-game win over the Krueger Printers team which was not represented. Urban VanderVelden spilled a 315 count and 191 sries for the Mills.

Y. M. C. A. Volleyball Team Trips New London

The Y. M. C. A. volleyball team went to New London last night and copped seven straight games. It was the first time New London had ever engaged in competition with an outside team and before the evening was over the Appleton squad was spending much of its time teaching the finer points of the game.

Members of the Appleton team who made the trip were Carleton Fuerst, Percy Menning, Edward Krause and the Rev. C. M. Schendel, spikers; Robert Heies, Robert Potter and Frank Hammer, scrum men.

Appleton will play a return match with the Sheboygan Score Board Taverns at Sheboygan, March 30.

Dutch Lonborg Won't Accept Kansas Post

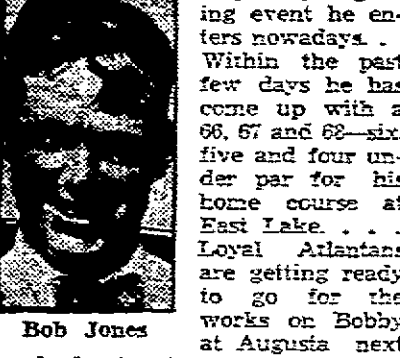

Evanson, Ill. — (P) — Arthur (Dutch) Lonborg, basketball coach for 10 years at Northwestern University, has declined an offer to assume the athletic directorship of his alma mater, Kansas University.

Lonborg, whose Northwestern court teams have won 119 games and lost 61, said last night he will remain on the Northwestern staff "after due consideration of the Kansas University proposition."

Bobby Jones Blasting Daylights Out of Par

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

ATLANTA, GA., — (P) — Bobby Jones is up to his old tricks again. . . here he is, blasting the living daylights out of par on the eve of the masters' tournament at Augusta, the only major golfing event he enters nowadays. . .

Bob Jones

Within the past few days he has come up with a 66, 67 and 68—six, five and four under par for his home course at East Lake. . .

Loyal Atlantans are getting ready to go for the works on Bobby at Augusta next week despite the fact that he finished far back last year after burning up almost all the courses in Florida and Georgia before moving on to Augusta.

American league pitchers are losing no time getting ready for Hank Greenberg. . . Red Sox twirlers passed Hank three out of four times the other day. . . Joe Louis' appearance at Omaha left a sour taste. . . Papers said the bomber appeared both bored and slow. . . That $10 tops probably will mean the end of all talk about a Louis-Bradstock tie in Chicago next June. . . Coast experts have made Big Ten athletes winter book favorites over California stars in the inter-conference dual track and field meet at Los Angeles in June. . . Word from Italy says old Primo Carnera has gone and got married.

Pop Feller gets almost as much mail as his son, Bob. . . If somebody isn't trying to sell Pop some gadget or other, they want to know how to teach their sons to play baseball. . . Here is a typical letter: "My son is no good. . . He won't work. . . All he wants to do is play baseball. . . Please write me how to make a pitcher out of him." . . Pop is getting well fed up on some of this stuff. . . "You'd think Bob never had to work," he said. . . "He's been at it around our farm ever since he could walk. . . Did most of the hard work, too."

Lon Chloza of the Giants is only 26, but he is gray haired and partly bald. . . In civilian clothes he looks more like a club owner than a player. . . His friends on the coast aren't warming up to the idea of making a third sacker out of Vince Dimaggio. . . Old Dazzy Vance, hale and hearty, visited around with the Dodgers at Clearwater the other day. . . Down at New Orleans, Bob Feller was posing for pictures. . . Just as the cameras clicked a youthful admirer leaped out of the grandstand and got into the picture with Bob. The kid's dad, a taxi driver, shows the photo to all his fares.

It looks like the widest open Kentucky derby in years. . . Write your own ticket. . . Henry Armstrong, sensational coast featherweight, makes his next start against Pete de Grasse at Los Angeles, April 6. . . Steve Mcivor, young third sacker, may not make the grade as successor to Manager Jimmy Dykes at the hot corner. Every time Dykes works out, the kid says: "Gee, every day you make it tougher for me to take your job."

Fuzzey Douglas Likes His Wisconsin Baseball Squad

MADISON — Lowell (Fuzzey) Douglas, University of Wisconsin baseball coach, formerly of Kaukauna in the State League, is almost unique as a member of the athletic coaching profession because he admits that his material is "good—probably about as good as the average University of Texas squad — and Texas is 'tops' in the Southwest in baseball," he says.

But "Fuzzey" is not reckless enough to predict how many games his Badger nine will win, so he will probably be able to keep his card in the baseball coaches' union. He says that pitching plays a big part in winning college ball games and he is not ready to pass judgment on his pitchers until he has a chance to try them out in a few practice games.

Coach Douglas, a graduate of Baylor university and a born and bred Texan, has one — and only one — complaint against Wisconsin in baseball. He does not like the Wisconsin weather, which is keeping his squad indoors and showing no signs of moderating in the near future. Douglas has 31 candidates working out daily in the field house and is giving them daily drills in every fundamental possible inside the big hall, but what he wants now is to see his Badgers in a few seven-inning practice games.

Belonged to Sox

Himself a former pitcher, who was once the property of the Chicago White Sox and, earlier, one of the greatest college hurlers ever developed in Texas, Douglas is spending much time in instructing the Wisconsin mound candidates. Veterans with some varsity experience include the Zuehlis twins—George and Walter, Bob Krause, a big left hander; Alfred (Moose) Nelson; and John Marriott, a junior.

Leading sophomore hurlers are Irvin Doudna, a left hander, and Bob Hendricks, a right hander with a real fast ball. Both are big men, tall, rangy and powerful, who have evidently made a distinctly favorable impression on Coach Douglas. Other sophomores who have shown ability are Frank Dupe, who was also a member of the varsity basketball squad, Martin Peterman, Kenneth Fjelstad and Harley Van Akkeran.

Catching duties should be well taken care of by three veterans—Steve Rondone and Albert (Red) Palmittier, seniors, and Florian Radke, junior. In the event that all this trio should be put out of commission Douglas could call upon Roger Rinehart, slated for the outfield but a reserve receiver for two years. Although Rondone and Radke saw the most service last season, Palmittier appears to have a slight edge thus far because of his throwing to bases.

In spite of the loss of three regular infielders—Wegner, Heyer, and De Mark — Coach Douglas believes the Badger inner defenses will be unusually strong this year. Captain Jack Gerlach will hold down his old position at shortstop, with Stan Haukeidahl almost certain to play first base; either LeVerne Kent or Norman Olson at second; and Harold Schroeder, a minor "W" man, or Howard Ferris at third. Other likely infield candidates are Pat Baker and Mark Sodden, first basemen; Bjame Lyne, third baseman, and Frank DeMark, shortstop.

The Badgers will take a short training trip through Illinois, on which they will play one game with Illinois Normal, April 6, and two with Bradley Institute, April 9 and 10. Bradley Institute will play a return game in Madison, April 16. Coach Douglas is also seeking games with Illinois Western, there, April 2 and 3, if weather conditions permit.

Blackhawks Release

American Puck Players

Chicago — (P) — Manager Clem Loughlin of the Chicago Blackhawks started on a new hunt for all-American hockey material today after the outright release of five American born players given a try-out at the end of the campaign just ended.

Max Frederick McLaughlin, Hawk owner, who last night announced release of the five rookies and retention of Loughlin as pilot for another season, indicated he still hopes someday to have Chicago represented in the National Hockey League entirely by players born and trained in this country, rather than Canada.

The players released were Ike Klingbeil, Bun La Prairie, Milt Brink, Paul Schaefer and Al Suomi.

Appleton Team Entered In Soccer Grid League

Green Bay — (P) — The newly organized Central Wisconsin Soccer Football league had Green Bay, Appleton, Sheboygan, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac as members today. Most of the cities formerly belonging to the eastern Wisconsin circuit. Plans for the spring season will be completed at a meeting in Oshkosh next week.

Tilden Is Badly Beaten by Perry

But Big Bill Still Insists He Doesn't Know How Fred Wins

New York — (P) — Big Bill Tilden saved only 10 games out of 32, and one set out of four in his first meeting with Fred Perry but still wondered today what makes Perry's tennis click.

"He was extremely interesting to play, but I still don't know why he wins," mused the 44-year-old veteran, repeating his theme song of recent months, after dropping a decisive 6-1, 6-3, 4-6, 6-0 decision to black-haired Briton before 13,132 spectators in Madison Square Garden last night.

Perry trotted to the showers looking remarkably fresh after his four sets with Tilden and two sets of doubles, in which he, pairing with Vines, defeated Tilden and Vinnie Richards, 6-4, 6-4.

Big Bill remained the popular favorite to the final shot although he evidently was no match for his younger, steadier and more agile rival.

Neither would venture any opinion as to the outcome of their four other matches, in Chicago, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Boston.

Stuhldreher Wins Red Derby at U. W. Funfest

Madison — (P) — Athletic Director Harry A. Stuhldreher won the red derby for his contribution as "Road-master" at the Sigma Delta Chi gridiron banquet in the Memorial Union last night.

The popular Badger football coach, attending the Wisconsin funfest for the first time, was the unanimous choice on a ballot taken at the close of a program of skits and "revelations" on campus affairs.

Winners of the derby in recent years were Dean Chris L. Christensen, Dr. Glenn Frank, Arlie Mucks, Professor John Hicks, Louis Kahlenberg, Alexander Melkjohn, and Robert Allen.

Brews Begin Exhibition Games Against Giants

Biloxi, Miss. — (P) — The Milwaukee Brewers were set today to open their spring exhibition campaign against the New York Giants.

Manager Allan Sothoron, who had planned an intracity game yesterday to put the team in fettle for today's opener, was forced to confine the session to limbering up exercises because of a heavy rain.

Garland Braxton was the choice to hurl the first three innings for the Brewers and will be followed by Ray Wallen of Milwaukee in the fourth. Allan Johnson of Pulaski, Wis., will relieve Wallen in the seventh.

The club will travel to New Orleans Saturday for games this weekend with Cleveland.

Yale Swimmers Wallop Milwaukee A. C. Team

Milwaukee — (P) — Taking first place in every event, the Yale University swimming team defeated the Milwaukee Athletic club last night in an exhibition meet, 62 to 13.

The Yale swimmers stopped off here on their way to the Minneapolis for the national intercollegiate swimming meet Friday and Saturday.

Yale set two M. A. C. tank records.

MICKEY MCGUIRE CAUGHT THE BARTLETT TWINS PLAYING MOUNTAIN CLIMBER

Heavyweight Go Stages Comeback

Governor Horner Lends Support to Title Bout, June 22

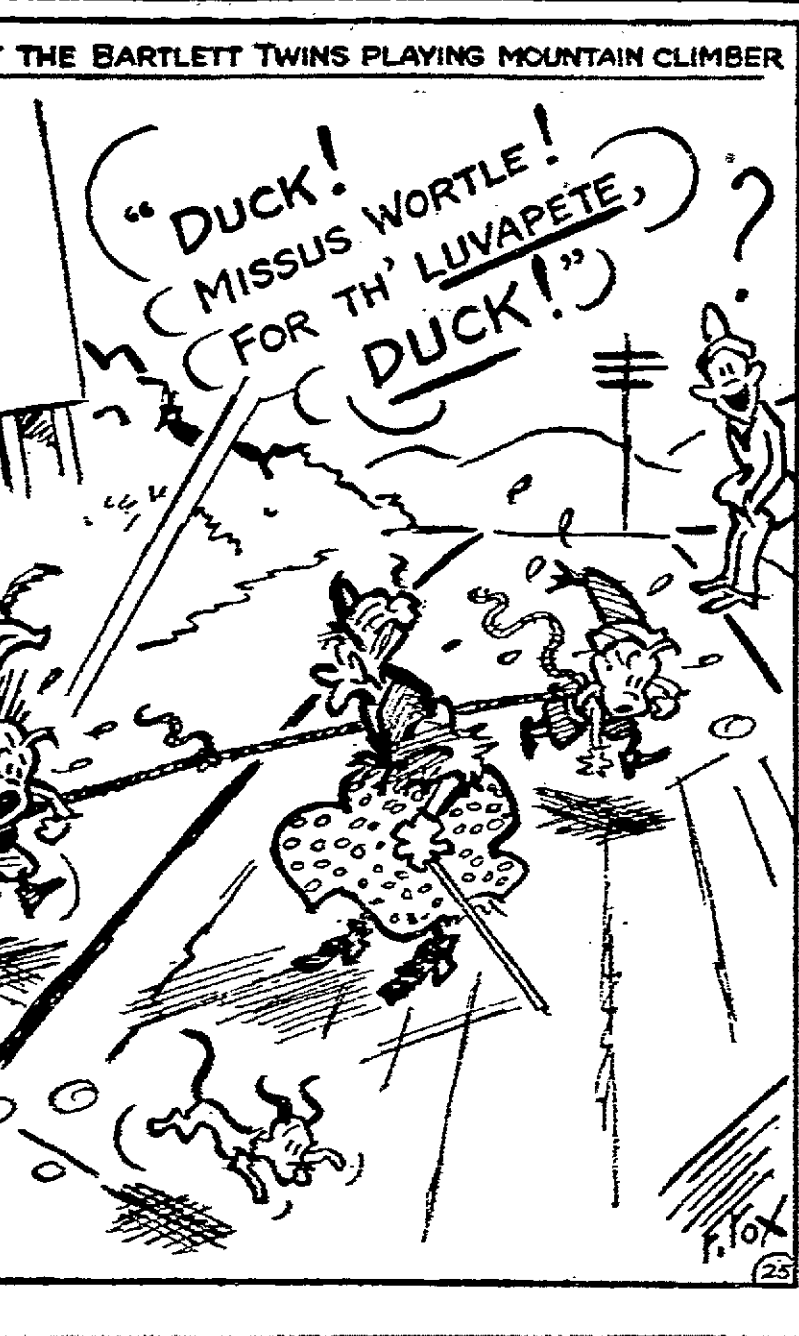

Chicago — (P) — Chicago's heavyweight title fight camp bounced back into action today after being pushed on the ropes by a series of litigation rights and legislative lefts.

Joe Foley, promoter for the scheduled championship bout June 22 at Comiskey park between titleholder James J. Braddock and challenger Joe Louis, was ready to meet the champion and his manager, Joe Gould, when they arrive late today or Friday to select a training site.

A ray of sunshine in the form of a statement by Governor Henry Horner had dispersed most of the promoters' gloom engendered by the Illinois senate's passage of a bill for a $10 top on seats for a bout expected to have a $3.20 to $27.50 ticket scale. Enactment of such law, Foley contended, would drive the fight out of Chicago.

"There is apparently an effort in certain quarters to discourage holding of the contest, the governor said. 'I seriously doubt that the action of the senate will have any effect on the holding of the contest. Nor do I expect the house to concur in the action of the senate.'"

House Trailer Dwelling, Its Effect on Future of U.S. Is Subject of Debate

BY CARL W. MASON
Milwaukee, Wis. — House trailer dwelling and travelling is a passing fad or craze along with miniature golf, mah jong and jigsaw puzzles and destined like them to sooner or later pass into the limbo of almost forgotten aberrations of a few months or years. Or is it? This question is beginning to be debated with increasing heat by conservatives and persons whom the trailer "hits" on the one hand and by the present and would-be trailer enthusiasts and their beneficiaries on the other. A few days ago I spent an edifying hour with the well known artist Woodward who maintains a studio and extensive gallery near this city. A Bostonian, conservative, advanced in age he was for more than 40 years the head of the art activities at Tulane university in New Orleans and has been invited in many other art circles. He argued that the trailer life with all its freedom, mobility, relief from the drudgery of large homes, easy sociability and lure of possible romance is after all excessively narrowed and barren of the things that make life worth living.

According to his view trailer life as a continued form of existence is unnatural and contrary to the innate basic needs and desires of a race whose living and best development are founded on the principle of a home in the fullest and best sense. There must be some factors of luxury, of expansion, of adequate household goods and traditions if man is not to revert to the stage of the nomad and his tent. Where in the trailer life there is place for beautiful furniture, inspiring pictures and statuary, gardens that reflect the soul of so many Americans, the intriguing gadgets of science, all the activities of home that enrich the lives of the dwellers and furnish the background essential to most normal and full development of the individual? Will a cursory glancing at passing scenery, sitting around tourist camps, playing shuffleboard and horse shoes, dining at the community house, sitting in at tables of bridge or doing a little fishing ultimately satisfy the needs and longings of the great bulk of Americans?

Doesn't Agree

Woodward's idea is that Roger Babson's famous prediction that within 20 years half the population of the country will be living in trailers was made in a spirit of humor or exaggeration calculated to provoke reactions revealing the real state of affairs and trends.

Certainly Mr. Babson's prediction needs to be at least taken with a large dose of salt. By 1936 the United States will have a population of probably 140,000,000 or 150,000,000. Conceive of the vast change, the disruption of all national life and economy if 70,000,000 or 80,000,000 persons should be dwelling in the little wheeled homes and presumably moving restlessly about from place to place particularly during the fall and spring seasons. The problems presented to highway, community, service, trailer camp and other managers would be little short of appalling. What would become of the hotel, apartment house, room renting, real estate and many other businesses? Consider the effect upon property prices and upon the taxation structure.

Most trailer owners of the northern and middle states aim to get to the "sunny south" somewhere be-between Florida and California during the cold months. Florida laborers now to accommodate a million or two visitors a season. Suppose 10,000,000 or 20,000,000 or more persons in trailers attempted to crowd into that state when winter nears.

Bitter Warfare

Another feature would be the increasingly intense and bitter warfare between the would-be emancipated trailerites and those citizens whose interests in apartment and lodging houses, hotels, rooms, real estate, furniture and household equipment and other vested features are hard hit or completely ruined by the smut to the mobile life. Already this animosity is appearing in concrete instances of active hostility to the trailer travelers. During the present trip a couple of us who had parked our vehicles on a village common where he and others had dwelt quietly and peaceably were ultimately ordered off by an officious small town constable who, we were later informed by friends, had been impelled to action by a cantankerous, local, woman boarding-house keeper who fancied the trailer damaged her interests and consequently hated the entire fraternity, being anxious to "do it dirt". Trailerites being well within their rights and being largely citizens of standing and substance who have made their marks in the world will naturally not for long take such treatment lying down. Imagine then the trouble that may develop if trailerism expands into anything like the great proportions prophesied for it.

More trailers would mean fewer children, for the trailer life is scarcely suitable either for large families or for their effective rearing and education.

It is doubtful if trailer born or bred youngsters would match up to the standards of those brought up in comfortable traditional homes with all their advantages, traditions and associations. Thus a great growth in trailerism would doubtless mean a decrease in population and the appearance of a somewhat retrogressive generation.

Not Either Extreme

The truth of the whole matter is that neither extreme will be the result in all this trailer development. That there will be a great expansion of this delightful mode of traveling and living cannot be doubted. But the very size of the change will emphasize the extent of the inevitable reaction to follow. Already numerous persons are selling their trailers after a trip or two. The novelty soon wears off. The craze quickly passes. The life isn't what it was expected to be. Old habits and tastes reassert themselves. Multitudes can never ac-

Let's slow down, Daisy—I think we're being followed.

custom themselves to the cramped quarters, the miniature existence, the absence of old substantial ties, activities and interests. When the fad enthusiasm passes and a new fashion presents itself to fascinate the so-called allured American, he will dispose of their vehicles and go back to the old complicated life with a sigh of relief and a "never again."

Trailers will, at the last, fulfill two main functions. Many persons will own them for vacations, fishing and hunting trips and week-end jaunts. They will be merely an adjunct to the old settled life, a portable summer cottage or fishing and hunting lodge, and will be kept standing in the garage or the back yard most of the time. These trailers will not disturb the ordinary course of business but will, in fact, stimulate it as the automobile industry took up slack and helped so greatly to boost American employment, business and prosperity. It is just one more luxury.

For Limited Class

The second great future avenue of the trailer will be with certain limited classes of citizens many of whom in the past have inhabited tents, small apartments or single rooms and whose change to the trailers will not in the end seriously damage general business or vested interests. The carnival, circus, musician, medicine show class that has lived in tents sleeping cars, cheap hotels changes easily to trailers. Certain classes of business men also find the trailer well suited to their needs. The natural "gypsy" element gravitates to the trailer as the duckling finds the water. And finally there are the retired, the unconnected, the childless, all those lacking close ties that bind them strongly to a single locality. They have been migrant to a great extent in the past and the trailer merely absorbs them as a matter of course as long as they are able to drive and attend to the moderate duties of trailer housekeeping. Of course there will always be new enthusiasts just as the bicycle finds fresh devotees each year and in every succeeding generation. But for any great percentage of Americans to cut loose from the settled life and spend the remainder of their years in the playhouse home along the road, such a result is not at all probable.

Asks Cooperation on Night Parking Problem

The cooperation of motorists in the elimination of all-night parking on highways and village streets in Outagamie county was asked today by Captain Charles Steidl of the county traffic police. Reduction in the number of cars left out all night will facilitate inspection of those found by traffic police and, consequently, will aid in preventing burglaries and similar crimes, Steidl stated.

Cagers to Name Honorary Captains Before Each Game

Koehn Led Scoring This Year With Total of 158 Points

Kaukauna—Instead of electing a captain for next year, the Kaukauna High school basketball team this week decided to name honorary leaders before each game. Coach Paul Little reported, George Hatchell, captain of this year's squad, will be graduated in June. After checking over season's scoring records, Coach Little announced that Koehn, red-haired forward, led the team's scoring with 158 points and that Bootz, center, was free throw honors, tossing in 42 out of 74 awarded him for a percentage of 57. While he was the best at making free throws, Bootz also committed the greatest number of fouls during the season, 53 personals and two technicals. Koehn had 52 fouls.

In accumulating his 158 points, Koehn snagged 64 field goals and 30 free throws. He also played the most number of minutes of any man, 533, which means almost 10 hours of actual combat during the 19 games. Hatchell played 531 minutes and Bootz 535.

Bootz was second in scoring with 122 points, chalking up 50 field goals and his 42 free throws. Hatchell had 77 points, Vanervenhoven 54, Peterson 21, and Hanby 15.

Of the regulars who played most consistently during the season, Hanby drew the fewest number of fouls. He was punished only 15 times, less than once a game.

The Kaws scored 177 field goals and 110 free throws for a total of 464 points during the season, an average of 24.4 per game.

They were offered 242 free throws, which gave them a percentage of 45. The squad committed 215 personals and 2 technicals during the season.

Action Necessary Because
County Board Meets
Monday

Kaukauna—The common council will hold a special meeting this evening to name a successor for the position of First ward supervisor, left vacant by the death of John F. Hoolihan. Prompt action is necessary because the Outagamie county board meets next Monday. A two-thirds majority of the council is needed for the appointment.

If Hoolihan's death had come 30 days or longer before the election April 6, his successor would have been elected by the people. Harry McAndrews explained yesterday, but whoever is appointed now will serve for another year before the office becomes elective.

Kaukauna—Six bridge tenders, three for each of the Lave street and Wisconsin avenue bridges, were appointed this week by the city council. Sheboygan Falls Man Again Heads Dairymen's Group

Election of Officers Ends 2-Day Convention At Oshkosh

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau) Oshkosh—Harry E. Hall, Sheboygan Falls, was reelected president of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association at a business meeting which closed the 2-day convention of the cattle breeders, Wednesday afternoon.

J. C. Nisbet, Port Atkinson, was also reelected secretary. Elk Mound, Wis., was elected vice president of the association, replacing M. L. Wenz, New Lisbon.

Two new directors were elected and two were reelected by the dairymen. W. A. Munn, Janesville, and D. P. Hughes, Menomonee, were reelected for another term, and N. L. Woods, New Lisbon, and J. E. Bowen, Barron, replaced G. W. Vergeron, Madison, and Walter Katterhenry, Beloit.

Oshkosh — Seeking to buy 100 registered bull calves for Juneau county farmers to use in herd building, Manley Sharp, county agricultural agent, scurried about making contacts during the Wisconsin Dairymen's association convention which closed yesterday.

He has purchased 25 animals ranging from two months to a year old. They include jerseys, guernseys, brown Swiss and Holsteins.

Juneau county farmers, although they own 30,000 cows, are anxious to increase herd production. They have started a cooperative campaign of herd improvement based on acquisition of good sires.

The County Livestock Breeders association, originators of the plan, enlisted the aid of the county agricultural committee and county bankers.

Originally the proposal called for bankers to supply the money and either lease or sell the bulls outright to interested farmers. The dairymen, however, were impressed so favorably by the bulls already shipped in, Sharp said, that they expressed a desire to buy rather than rent them.

"We are getting this stock at good prices," Sharp said. "Breeders I've approached showed a great interest in our project and appreciated the value of the program not only to our farmers but to the state as a whole. That, of course, reacts to their benefit. All seemed eager to cooperate."

Sharp said the next step in the plan would be an effort to induce buyers to retain the bulls until they were proved fully for production and re-production.

The dairymen's association went on record favoring enactment by the state legislature of a law to standardize containers for preserved foods in one-quarter and one-half pints, pint, quart, two quart and gallon sizes.

Other resolutions adopted at the closing session of the annual convention yesterday favored repeal of the long and short haul clause of the interstate commerce act, complemented the state department of agriculture and markets for its cooperation with the association, and passed a state law providing for area tests of bangs disease in cattle.

The group also voted to take steps to incorporate a Wisconsin Bull Testing association.

HENDY LEAGUE TO BOWL Menasha — Although no leagues will bowl at the Hendy league on Good Friday, the Hendy Recreation Bowling league will roll as per schedule at 7 and 9 o'clock this evening. The Commercial league rolled Tuesday evening leaving Friday night open.

Menasha — The Easter season was observed in classes at Menasha High school conducted by W. J. Chapuis with a comparative study of Latin and English passages in the new testament dealing with a brief summary of the trial, crucifixion and resurrection of Christ. Because of the lack of stage facilities at the school, the program could not be presented in pageant form as it was originally intended.

SCOUT MEETING

Neenah — Members of the First Methodist Boy Scout troop, No. 43, will meet at 7 o'clock this evening at the church. William Marsh is the scoutmaster.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

SYNOPSIS: A pistol cracks in Anne and "Pips" studied the killing Count Vronski, who had been blackmailing her with love letters. Nearby are Anne, Clarke Bigelow and Karsanoff, the exotic dancer, who hide the corpse during a party. Later Bigelow and Dr. Austrelitz, the psychologist, move it to Vronski's rooms. Police arrest Thorne Dryden, who hated Vronski, and seek a woman in mink who visited Vronski's place the fatal night. Baroness Boreoff, who loved Vronski, accuses Anne of the murder, making a scene at a night club.

Chapter 38

'I DID THE KILLING'

HALF an hour later, Anne and Bigelow left Madge's. In the taxi going home, she relaxed with a sigh against his shoulder and he took her hand in his and held it. But they spoke very little.

When he had dropped Anne, he went to Dr. Austrelitz's house and told him what had happened.

That woman is dangerous," he ended nervously, "because I'm afraid she's not mentally responsible and I think we ought to go along and see her now and see what can be done to protect Anne."

"Very well, we'll go," agreed Austrelitz promptly.

They drove to the baroness's apartment and asked for her in the big ornate hall. The doorman informed them that she would be impossible to see, the baroness would come some time to come—that she had been brought in an hour before in a state of collapse and that her doctor and two nurses were at that moment in attendance on her.

For the moment, then, it seemed that she would cause no further trouble.

At two o'clock the next day, Bigelow and Austrelitz presented themselves at the Carleton and asked to see Karsanoff. They were invited to sit down, and Karsanoff received them lying on the big couch in her sitting room, propped up with dozens of finely embroidered pillows and covered with a white bearskin rug. Her hair was loose in a dark silken cloud about her face. The room was filled with Easter lilies in tall vases, and the air was heavy with their fragrance.

"Forgive me that I do not rise to greet you," she smiled. "Under this robe, I have nothing in my clothes. It is very difficult to rise. Even in loose clothes. And today, it is most important that I rest. For if I should not make a success tonight, the word would speed across the water to Paris and my career would be very much hindered there. However, the rehearsal went very well last night. Sit down, please. . . . Mariushka told me you wished very much to see me last night."

"Yes," answered Bigelow, "about that letter in the paper. You saw it, naturally?"

"Naturally," replied Karsanoff with a faint smile in her eyes.

"As a matter of fact," added Austrelitz, "you wrote it, didn't you?"

He drew out the facsimile of the letter cut from the paper, the copy she had made of it on his own machine, and the letterhead from a sheet of his stationery, and these he laid before her on her knees. She looked at them indifferently and raised her eyes to consider first one man and then the other.

"Yes," she said with a slight shrug. "I did write it. That is quite true. And then—"

"You had met Vronski before that night, then?" asked Bigelow.

"I had seen the man who called himself Vronski."

"Did you know her because of him?" asked Bigelow. "We thought you might be an agent of your government—it is the statements made in that letter are true."

Karsanoff laughed softly and called, "Mariushka . . . Mariushka!"

Mariushka came hurriedly to the door and Karsanoff spoke to her rapidly in Russian. Mariushka laughed—but there was no mirth in her laughter—and with a brief repeat in the same language—she withdrew.

"The Only Way I Could Know"

"You must forgive me," said Karsanoff with some compunction. "I am very rude, but what you suggested was so funny I wished to share it with my maid. That I should be an agent for Russia—I who have been an exile since the revolution! . . . That was droll. . . . No, I did not come here to track down that man, but everything I wished in the letter was true, and I wished you to think some body had followed him to take vengeance. I thought it might confuse the issue sufficiently to help that poor Dryden."

"But why are you so anxious to help a man you do not even know?" asked Austrelitz quietly.

Karsanoff looked at him in some amusement. "You ask," she said, "but I think—my dear doctor—you already know, eh? I was anxious to help you, because it is not a pleasant thing to see one who is completely innocent should be left there in that cell. I have been in a prison cell. I know what it is like. . . . But how do I know he is completely innocent, you would ask, eh? The only way I could know, my dear doctor. Because it was I who did the killing."

Both men stared at her. Although she spoke with some emphasis, she seemed neither deeply moved nor greatly concerned over the statement she was making. But she watched them keenly. Bigelow stirred and his eyes searched her face almost incredulously. He was half prepared for her confession, but he had not expected her to make it so coolly. Austrelitz's face revealed nothing; he merely nodded an acknowledgement of her words.

"I hoped you'd tell us about it, frankly," he said.

"I will. I had made up my mind to tell you. It astonished me that you did not ask long ago. I never meant to keep it a secret. You see, I did not plan things as they happened. If I had stopped to think, I should not have killed him there all night in Anne's studio like that. But one trouble with me is I

Many Different Lilies Grown for Easter Display

Florists Have Constantly Sought to Produce Larger, More Beautiful Blossoms.

There is no variety of lily known to botanists as the Easter lily. Many varieties have experienced the honor of being grown in quantity for Easter celebrations, and several varieties share that honor today.

The first lily which florists now alive remember as the favorite for Easter was the madonna lily of gardens. This has also been called the Lent lily and Annunciation lily. It is a lovely flower possessing all the beauty which is required for an Easter flower; but like the American Beauty rose, it was displaced by varieties which showed more willingness to grow vigorously in greenhouses.

Perhaps because it was imported in those days from Europe, it was displaced by a variety originating nearer home. Liliun Harrisii, from Bermuda, became the favorite and reigned for years. In the meanwhile the lilies of Japan were slowly becoming known to the western hemisphere, and the ambitious Japs were laying the foundation of their industrial expansion, in which exports of flower seeds and bulbs were to play an important part.

The first Japanese lily to be used in quantity for Easter flowers was L. Longiflorum, whose fragrant, pure white trumpets were larger than Harrisii, although the latter was related to it. Then other Asiatic varieties were tried out, all cousins of Longiflorum, including multiflorum, Erabu, Vaughanii and Formosum, the latter from the island of Formosa.

Lilium giganteum is the present favorite, originating in the Himalayan mountains. It excels in vigor, and number of lovely fragrant flowers. In England it grows in gardens, often attaining the height of ten feet, but it never does so well in this country. After it has bloomed the bulbs divide, so that they are not likely to flower again for several years.

Whatever variety your florist may favor, you can depend upon getting the loveliest flowers of the year on your Easter lily plant.

AN EASTER LILY

Your Easter lily plant should not be over-heated. Seventy degrees during the daytime and 60 degrees at night is best. Keep the soil moist but not wet. The bulb will not keep over for another year satisfactory, as it is forced into bloom for the season and has spent most of its energy.

Consider fragrance when making up an arrangement. At least one of the flowers should have an outstanding scent. This is easily done now, as many of the spring flowers have a lovely perfume.

It is possible to have a dinner table arrangement which will last for many weeks by grouping blooming plants such as the tulip, daffodil and crocus with a vine or other green plant. Use an open dish or bowl for this purpose.

One of the dried roses, carnations or gardenias are most appropriate to wear for St. Patrick's day.

If you don't think spring has arrived, here's a list of the flowers which are available: sweet peas, calendulas, carnations, roses, stocks, tulips, daffodils, crocuses, frezias, lily-of-the-valley and violets.

Make an indoor garden of the plants you receive for Easter.

No flower has ever taken the place of the carnation as a favorite boutonniere.

Look over your garden situation. It will soon be time to order bedding plants to trim the walks and make beds and borders. Use a few of them in the window and porch boxes.

Do not neglect to get a geranium plant at Easter time.

If you have little time to complete your centerpiece for a dinner party, get sweet peas—they can be arranged in little time, and are always charming.

It is folly to attempt to plant in wet soil.

Rickets to Blame For Deformities In Many Children

Disease Is a Chronic Nutritional Disorder Of Youngsters

Madison—Rickets still persists and is responsible for many deformities in children, declared the State Medical Society today.

"The crippled children's division of the department of public instruction informed the State Medical Society this week that 133 children, deformed by rickets, are under the department's supervision. This does not include many other cases which have not been called to the department's attention.

Nutritional Disorder

"Rickets is a chronic nutritional disorder of infants and children, producing deformities chiefly in the bones. It is the most common of the nutritional diseases and is more widespread in the temperate zone. There are more cases found in areas lacking in sunshine than in areas where there is an abundance of sunshine. In Wisconsin we witness a greater increase in the number of cases in the fall of the year and the increase continues until March or April and then disappears rapidly.

"Children fail to secure the required amount of Vitamin D from the sunshine and consequently the bone fails to harden properly and fails to develop normally. The result is that the bone is soft, and deforms, bending and twisting occur.

"The earliest signs of rickets are restlessness, irritability and sweating of the head. Unless remedial treatment is insured an enlargement of the ends of the bones will develop, and the muscles will become soft and flabby.

Can Be Prevented

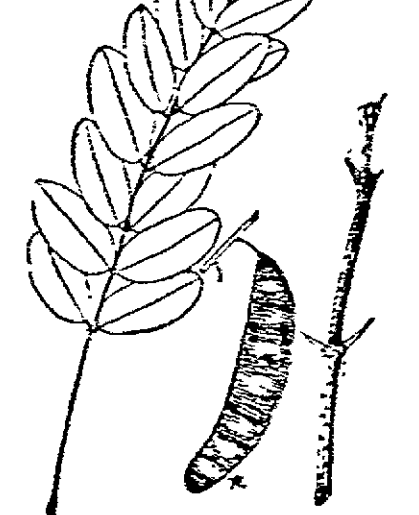

"Rickets can be prevented. In fact it is a unique disease in that there are several methods whereby it may be prevented and cured. These methods are cod-liver oil, ultraviolet light, and foods that have been treated with ultraviolet light. Cod liver oil is the method of choice as it is the only method in which it is possible to control the disease. Other sources of Vitamin D may be used to supplement the cod-liver oil dosage prescribed by the physician. The amount of cod-liver oil to be used in preventing rickets depends on the age of the child, the severity of the disease and the potency or strength of the particular brand of cod-liver oil. Particular caution should be exercised in the use of highly concentrated cod-liver oil as an excess of these concentrates has been known to cause harmful effects.

"Bottle-fed babies are much more likely to develop rickets than are breast-fed babies, but of course, no-

BLACK LOCUST

The black locust is not native to the state but has been planted extensively and in some places has grows well on a wide variety of soils. It is a medium sized tree, 30 to 50 feet high or sometimes larger. Open grown specimens usually branch low, forming a narrow open crown.

The leaves are alternate, compound, 6 to 10 inches long, consisting of from 7 to 19 oblong thin leaflets. The twigs and branchlets carry strong sharp spines which occur in pairs with a leaf-scar between them.

The flowers are fragrant, white or cream colored, and appear in early spring in graceful pendulous clusters. The fruit is a pod 3 to 5 inches long containing 4 to 8 small hard seeds which ripen late in the fall.

The wood is yellow in color, close grained, very heavy and hard, strong and very durable in contact with the soil. Over its natural range (the southern Appalachians) it is used extensively for fence posts, poles, tree nails, insulator pins and occasionally for lumber and fuel. The future importance is somewhat in doubt. It produces valuable wood and grows rapidly, but has two serious insect enemies and a decay fungus which causes great damage in some localities.

Black locust is valuable for holding soil on steep banks, because it spreads by sending up suckers from the roots.

Sale of Seals to Aid Crippled Ends Sunday

About $235 has been raised in the Easter seal sale being conducted in Outagamie county by the county chapter of the Wisconsin Association for the Disabled. All money reported in has been donated from residents of the city. Reports from other sections of the county are expected the latter part of the week. The sale which was started several weeks ago will end on Easter Sunday.

Dr. J. B. MacLaren is chairman of the county unit. The association is the one recognized and permanent lay agency operating on behalf of the physically handicapped. Half the funds raised in the sale will be returned by the county unit for local work and the remainder will go to the state agency for its program.

Dr. Henry G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A. and M. college, has been mentioned as a candidate for the Oklahoma governorship.

Latest instances of rickets have occurred in breast-fed babies. "Prevent rickets—it is a crippling disease"

7 Churches Share in Good Friday Services

Forest Junction—Special services marking the close of the lent season and the observance of the Easter festival will open at Zion Evangelical church at 7.30 Thursday evening, when the Rev. Reedsville, in which seven Protestant churches from this area are participating. Miss Elda Bloy will appear on the program of the union service with a vocal solo. The Rev. Mr. Schneider will deliver one of the sermons and will also assist with a communion service at the Evangelical church at Morrison Friday evening.

Marion Seniors Make Plans for Graduation

Marion—The senior class has held several meetings recently and has been making preparations for graduation. The class colors are pink and silver and the class flower is the pink rose. The motto "Climb tho' the rocks be rugged."

The class play "Ghost of the Red-skin" is a mystery comedy in three acts. The cast is now learning its parts. The senior class decided not to publish an annual this year but will have a senior group picture made.

The I. Ramsdell Relief corps met at the home of Mrs. William Borchardt, Tuesday afternoon. There were 26 members present. During the business meeting it was decided to buy new rituals for the officers and to make up an Easter basket for a family quarantined for scarlet fever. It was reported that over $27 was made at the bake sale. A contest was held and Mrs. F. Mulvaney won the prize. A luncheon was served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. Borchardt, Mrs. H. Klawiter, and Mrs. F. Sprenger.

Miss Gladys Goodstorf of Chicago visited at her home over the weekend.

The Marion schools closed Wednesday afternoon, for a week's vacation.

The Methodist Episcopal church had confirmation services Palm Sunday and ten young people were confirmed by the Rev. W. Wiese. They were: James Plopper, James Rogers, Thomas Rogers, Mary Beth Rogers, Frances Evers, Mary Evers, Martin Lutzevitz, Les Pocat, Jerry Wulk and Robert Lincell.

Cartoonist to Appear in Last Lyceum Program

Bob Wood, American cartoonist, will be featured in the last Rootvelt Junior High school lyceum program in April. Wood will present a program which includes the art of drawing large colored pictures, writing upstage down and backwards and drawing caricatures of students in the audience.

NEARS COMPLETION

Angusta, Ga. — (AP) — Transport boats again will ply the historic Savannah river route soon from Augusta to Savannah.

The $1,780,000 lock and dam project at New Savannah bluff, 12 miles below Augusta, is nearing completion. It will assure a six-foot river channel the year around.

The lock, 360 feet long and 56 feet wide, is designed to accommodate a vessel drawing 14 feet.

Colorful Arrangement of Flowers Will Accentuate Easter Bouquet

A small bowl of gay spring flowers is easily arranged in an artistic manner if some short pieces of evergreen branches are first put inside the container. This material will support the stems in exactly the position desired and do it more effectively than most metal flower holders or "frogs," although this is not the case where a shallow container is used.

A Colorful Arrangement of Spring Flowers Which Can Be Made at Home.

Every good arrangement, like a fine painting, has a center of interest or focal point to which the eye is attracted. In a mixed arrangement of the various lovely spring flowers now available this may be a brilliant pink anemone as shown in the illustration, an open tulip, or perhaps a cluster of violets. The other flowers seem to radiate from this central point, often with very definite lines.

Dainty flowers such as sweet peas and small narcissuses should be given enough space so that each individual bloom may be seen. Do not crowd the flowers into a confused mass or checkerboard of colors and designs. An irregular outline is much more pleasing than the exact evenness produced when all the stems are of the same length, and massing of blooms on one side of the container can be offset by the seeming "weight" of other flowers extending farther out and at nearer a right angle from the vase.

There should also be a pleasing relationship in size between the bowl and the flowers in it. Sweet peas, for instance, would do in a heavy pottery bowl; but will show themselves best in a light, possibly transparent vase. According to a rule of the old masters of Japanese flower arrangement, the blooms should extend above the bowl to a distance of one and one-half times its diameter. This proportion, as shown in the illustration.

Boake Carter speaking:

"Luckies don't catch your throat—they're easy and smooth"

"The thing I prize most is my reputation for saying what I think. Here's what I sincerely think about smoking—it's one of the greatest pleasures in the world, but it can be utterly spoiled by throat irritation. My job's tough on the throat and I have to be careful to keep my voice clear. Long ago I found that Luckies are easy and smooth and don't catch your throat. That means everything in a job like mine. Next time you hear the usual 'Cheerio' at the end of my broadcast, you can picture me reaching for a Lucky an instant later."

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke. Mr. Carter verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies.
